

SENATOR ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE DIES

GEORGE E. HUDSON QUITS COMMISSION; JOHN PRUGH NAMED

Mayor Gives Absence as Reason—New Member is Ex-Councilman

George E. Hudson, mayor of Xenia and member of the City Commission, mailed his resignation of both offices to H. L. Smith, president of the commission, it was revealed Thursday. President Smith read the letter to members of the commission in recess session Monday night and it was accepted.

John W. Prugh, a member of the old city council, was appointed by the commission Monday to fill the vacancy and complete the term of Mr. Hudson, which expires in January, 1926.

Mr. Hudson, who is away from Xenia, declared in the letter in giving a reason for resigning, that he expected to be absent the greater part of the year, and left his resignation to be accepted at the pleasure of the commission. Regret was expressed by the members when apprised of the loss of Mr. Hudson.

The letter follows: "As I expect to be absent the greater part of this year, I herewith resign the offices of mayor and commissioner to take effect at the pleasure of the commission."

The letter was received by President Smith nearly five weeks ago but no action in naming a successor was taken until the Monday meeting, pending a selection. In the meantime the resignation was kept a secret.

Plans of Mr. Hudson during the year are indefinite but it is understood he will be at Chautauque, N. Y. Mr. Hudson was serving his first term as city commissioner. He was elected in November, 1922, and appointed mayor of Xenia a position he has held jointly with his duties as commissioner for four years.

The appointment of Mr. Prugh is for the office of commissioner and does not extend to combine the duties of mayor, it is announced. No action was taken by the Commission with reference to the appointment of a mayor at the Monday meeting and no selection has been made.

The commission is happy over the selection of an experienced mayor to fill the vacancy. Mr. Prugh, who accepted the appointment immediately, was a member of the old city council for a number of years where he acquired experience in city affairs and will make a valuable addition to the commission it is believed.

WRECK DEATH LIST NOW NUMBERS 44

Hackettstown, N. J., June 18.—The death list in the Lackawanna railroad wreck near here, mounted to forty-four today, with the death of another, and chances of mounting still higher.

The bodies of the Chicago victims were to be sent west on a special train today. Meanwhile work of investigating the disaster was continued.

James Mayberry, Jr., chief of the railroad division of the New Jersey state board of public utilities commissioners was prepared to submit the report of his investigations to three other members of the commission at Trenton. He said he was satisfied that sand and silt, washed over the tracks by the heavy rain was the primary cause of the wreck.

This was in accord with the statement of E. M. Rhine, general manager of the Lackawanna, who summed up his findings with the statement: "An act of God."

Industrial Employment Is Satisfactory Survey Shows

Federal Employment Services Says No Great Amount of Unemployment Exists—Automotive Industry Adding To Forces

Washington, June 18.—Industrial employment is "quite satisfactory" throughout the country, the United States employment service announced today in making public a survey of working conditions during May.

"The upward trend noted in employment in April was sustained," the report said. "This increase is not large, but it is gratifying to note that there is no great amount of unemployment apparent in any section of the country."

Noting further curtailment of bituminous coal mining during the past thirty days, the report said that a number of mines were entirely closed and that many of those still open were operating on a two or three day per week basis, while a number of the miners had found employment on road construction and seasonal farm work.

The iron and steel industry slightly curtailed operations in some plants last month, causing a decrease in the number of employees, but with few exceptions textile mills operated on a satisfactory schedule.

"The encouraging feature of this report," said Francis I. Jones, director of the employment service, "is that the automotive industry is adding to its working forces."

"The increased demand for all classes of farm labor in practically every state is affording employment to large numbers of men while some localities report a shortage of skilled agricultural help."

"There is no apparent letup in building construction work and all building tradesmen are able to find employment. The building of state and county roads is now well under way and is affording a large amount of employment."

CONSOLIDATION OF COAL MINES URGED IN BANKER'S TALK

Merger Would Cut Expenses and Benefit Public He Says

Chicago, June 18.—A program of consolidation of coal mining companies was advanced as "equally important to the industry and to the public," by Robert K. Cassatt, president of Cassatt and Company, Philadelphia bankers, at today's session of the eighth annual meeting here of the National Coal Association.

Declaring that no banker could do justice to the subject of extension of credit to coal companies without pointing out the question of labor supply and its compensation, Cassatt stated: "In districts where the compensation demanded by labor seems excessive, bankers will hesitate to advance funds, and the flow of capital to such districts will gradually dry up. Conversely, where profits seem to depend on abnormal low wages, bankers will be very cautious in making loans."

He presented the "manifest advantages of mergers" as follows: "1. Economy in overhead and selling expense. 2. Economy in the purchasing department. 3. Correction of destructive competitive conditions, as distinguished from combinations to control prices."

"I know that I am here on delicate ground and that the law is intended very properly to prevent any approach of monopoly, but what I have in mind is very different. No monopoly in this bituminous coal trade is in my opinion, possible. I doubt if any one company has ever mined over 4 per cent of the national production, and I do not believe that either the law-making bodies or the public will object to efforts by you men tending only to the elimination of loss and the realization of a reasonable profit."

"No mergers, such as I suggest, should have any other end in view and, in any case, monopoly injurious to the public is, in my opinion, impossible in your industry because of the vast undeveloped coal resources of our country. Any unusual increase in the selling price of coal always promotes immediate and rapid increase in potential production. It was so after the great anthracite strike of 1902 and after the Great War. The old rule of supply and demand always governs and always will."

"4. Larger companies mean greater financial strength, which in turn permits the installation of the most modern machinery, with consequent reduction in cost."

"5. A company operating a large number of mines has a tremendous advantage over the operation of a single unit. It can get cheaper power; it can give better service to its customers, and it can in times of surplus production secure greater economy in operation through shutting down some units and operating others on full time."

"On this point I know of several combinations of formerly competing companies which have followed this principle these last two years and have made small profits; whereas, had the old status been in existence, each of the constituent companies would have tried to keep running, and every one would, I am sure, have suffered heavy loss. Very large mergers are desirable in the coal trade, but haste should be made slowly. The first step should be the formation of local mergers to be later again combined with other combinations in other districts as experience shows this can best be done."

"JUMPS ON HOOK
Gloucester, June 18.—Frank Snyder, 18, jumped from the haymow in a barn near here, landing on the hook of a log chain. Nearly all the flesh was torn from one arm. Fifty stitches were necessary in closing the wound."

COURT EXPECTED TO CALL WITNESS WHEN STATE IGNORES HIM

Testimony May Complicate Case On Both Sides In Murder Trial

Chicago, June 18.—Dr. Chas. C. Faiman, the dapper little president of the National University of Sciences, was expected to be called to the witness stand today by order of Judge Thomas J. Lynch and not by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, despite the fact that he has all along been considered the prosecution's star witness against William D. Shepherd, on trial on a charge of having murdered his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

Faiman, although also under indictment as a confessed accessory to the alleged feeding of typhoid germs to McClintock, practically stands repudiated by Crowe, inasmuch as the latter has informed the court that "the state cannot vouch for him."

Judge Lynch, in the face of opposition by Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien for the defense today has intimated his intention of assuming responsibility for placing Faiman on the stand by ruling from the bench. "It would be an abuse of the discretion of the court if the court didn't call him as a court witness. I will call him and ask him his name, and address and his occupation," the court stated.

Should the court adhere to this ruling today, it will enable both sides to cross examine Faiman, a move that has placed the defense in a peculiar legal position.

Faiman's germ story is the keystone of the whole prosecution. Without it the state has no case. With it Assistant State's Attorney Savage believes they have introduced sufficient other circumstantial evidence to justify a verdict of guilty.

The position of the state was explained briefly. Crowe said he was taking no chances. If he called Faiman as his witness he would be bound by Faiman's answers and this he didn't want to do and wouldn't do. If the state called Faiman and Faiman should have repudiated his confession, he could do so by his answer to the first question. That would be in reply to the query whether or not he knew Shepherd.

If Faiman said he had never met Shepherd that would be the end of the trial. State would be prohibited from questioning him further for it would be unable to prove that Billy McClintock's death was by a "criminal agency" and that Shepherd was that agency.

As a court witness, however, if Faiman were to make that answer, Crowe would be in a position to show that Faiman had given contrary testimony previously.

He could show that Faiman was involved with Shepherd in an alleged plot to murder Billy and get his $1,000,000 estate, and point out that he repeated this story to the grand jury under oath.

Since his indictment, Faiman has been out on bond but living at a hotel under guard at the expense of the state.

GANNA IS SUCCESS AS COMEDienne

Paris, June 18.—Stage celebrities of Paris were outspoken in their praise today of Ganna Walska-McCormick, wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, as a comedienne and actress in contrast to their previous sharp criticism of her as an opera singer. Following her successful appearance last night as the "Duchess de Mauvelier" in "Le Habit Vert" (The Green Dress) before a colorful audience at a charity performance she said she probably would devote her future artistic efforts to opera rather than singing.

NEW CITY COMMISSIONER NAMED

Following the resignation of Mayor George E. Hudson from the city commission, commissioners appointed John W. Prugh, former councilman, to serve his unexpired term. Mayor Hudson resigned because of enforced absence from the city, which kept him from the deliberations of the commission. Mr. Prugh has accepted the appointment and begins his term at once. Commissioners are expected to soon elect one of their number as mayor. The term of Mr. Hudson would have expired at the first commission meeting in January, 1926. He was serving his first term on the commission.

MAC MILLAN SHIPS TO START SATURDAY TO GREENLAND PORT

Aviators Will Depend on Radio—Amateurs To Form Part Of Chain

Aboard the Polar Ship Peary, June 18.—(By Radio)—The Peary was off Wiscasset, Maine, today and her commander, Donald B. MacMillan, was on shore having proceeded overland from Boston, sailing point of the Peary.

After taking on more equipment, both the Peary and her companion ship the Bowdoin, will shove off on Saturday for their first northern objective, Etah, Greenland.

In the final analysis, the lives of the naval aviators who are to assist MacMillan in his hunt for the missing Amundsen polar expedition and to discover a new continent, will depend on radio and actually on the efficiency of the little 201-A tubes.

The intrepid explorer and his crew are banking on young America as their connecting link with civilization in establishing communication with them when in the frozen north.

Amateurs may form an important part of the radio chain which will receive the press messages reporting progress of the trip.

Commander Eugene F. McDonald, in charge of radio for MacMillan said today that this press dispatch would be picked up by boys and girl members of the American radio relay league who will "stand by," when the expedition invades the polar regions.

STATE RESTS CASE IN TRIAL OF KIRBY

Cleveland, June 18.—The state rested its case against Josiah Kirby at 9:45 this morning. Immediately upon the announcement, the court excused the jury until 1 p.m. and Attorney Luther Day, of counsel for Kirby began his argument asking that the court direct a verdict of not guilty by the jury on charges of larceny of shares of preferred stock in the Cleveland Discount Company.

Kirby has been on trial for the past week as a result of a state investigation of the collapse of the gigantic concern, which he founded and directed until 1921. This is the second trial for the financier as a result of the state probe. He formerly had been acquitted of charges of making a false financial statement.

WISCONSIN SOLON VICTIM OF HEART TROUBLE THURSDAY

Was Candidate For President Last November Election

Washington, D. C., June 18.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, progressive leader in the senate and candidate of progressives for the presidency last November, died here this afternoon. His death was due to heart trouble brought on by asthma and complications.

LaFollette's condition took a turn for the worse yesterday, but his physician, Dr. C. C. Marbury, did not despair of his ultimate recovery. This morning, however, after a restless night, the senator suddenly became gravely ill and Dr. B. M. Randolph, a heart specialist, was called into consultation.

Mrs. LaFollette, the widow, and Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., have been with the senator here since he was confined to his bed three weeks ago. His youngest son, Philip LaFollette, district attorney at Madison, Wis., arrived here yesterday. This morning the senator's two daughters, Mrs. George Middleton of New York and Mrs. Ralph Sucker, of Washington, joined the little family group, at the LaFollette home on Wyoming Avenue.

LaFollette was 70 years old last Sunday. He was born in Dane County, Wis., June 14, 1855. After serving as district attorney in Wisconsin for four years, he was a member of congress from 1885 to 1891, governor of Wisconsin from 1901 to 1905, and has served since in the United States senate, always playing a lone hand, while remaining nominally a member of the Republican party. His present term would have expired on March 4, 1927.

As chairman of the senate committee on manufacturers, Senator LaFollette sponsored the resolution which led to the famous oil investigations, which have culminated in criminal indictments against ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny. He was also the ranking Republican member of the committee on interstate commerce and finance, and could have been the chairman of either had it not been for his refusal to "play ball" with the Republican leaders in the senate.

The climax of LaFollette's career came a year ago when he definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the conference for progressive political action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republicans and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

Tentative plans of Mrs. LaFollette and her sons were that simple funeral services would be held here tomorrow or Saturday and that the body would then be taken to Madison, Wis., for burial.

HONORARY DEGREE IS GIVEN DR. THOMPSON BY WILBERFORCE U.

Five honorary degrees were conferred by Wilberforce University, at the sixty-second annual commencement exercises of the institution, at Galloway Hall, Thursday morning.

Dr. William Oxley Thompson, president of the Ohio State University, who delivered the commencement address received an L. L. D. degree. The other four degrees were conferred on Bishop William H. Hase, Philadelphia, Pa., L. L. D.; Dr. B. F. McWilliams, Toledo, O., L. L. D.; Bishop J. H. Jones, Wilberforce, L. L. D. and Miss Ida Mae Myller, Indianapolis, Ind., who received an M. A. degree.

The conferring of the honorary degrees followed the conferring of the student degrees and the presentation of diplomas and certificates.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 people from over the country attended the closing day's exercises. Commencement week at Wilberforce attracts thousands of university patrons, friends and relatives of the graduates and dignitaries of the A. M. E. Church annually to the university.

The commencement program opened at 10 o'clock with a procession of the student body to Galloway Hall. A musical number "To Greet The Springs," by Wilson, was given by the chorus and following the invocation, the chorus gave another number "Song of the Mountaineer," by Smith.

By special request the university quartet, composed of Homer Smith, J. Ballou, R. Ried, and H. Williams, sang a medley.

Dr. Thompson's subject was "Looking Ourselves in the Face." He congratulated the students on completing their college education and praised the colored race for its advance in education and along all lines.

After the conferring of the degrees, prizes in oratorical and essay contests were presented several students.

DOROTHY PERKINS TO PAY MURDER PENALTY WITH LONG SENTENCE

Stenographer Convicted of Slaying Lover by New York Jury

New York, June 18.—Dorothy Perkins, 17 year old telephone operator, convicted of first degree manslaughter for the murder of "Tommy" Templeton, her admirer, faced a ten to twenty year prison sentence as she sobbed in her cell today in Jefferson Market prison.

The blonde, bobbed-haired Dorothy, the youngest woman ever to be tried for murder in New York state, was reported to be in a highly nervous condition, following her series of collapses during the trial.

When the jury returned its verdict, shortly before midnight, Dorothy fainted in the arms of her lawyer. She was carried from the court room, crying: "Mamma, mamma, oh mamma."

Four of the jurors favored a first degree murder verdict, it was learned. No juror advocated acquittal but one suggested a recommendation for mercy based on the youth of the accused which was rejected by the other jurors.

There have been two many shootings by women," said Judge McIntyre in discharging the jury. "This verdict may stop women from shooting men in the future."

The jury returned its verdict a few minutes before midnight last night after deliberating two hours and forty-one minutes.

"Dorothy didn't get a fair trial," Mrs. Rudolph Perkins, mother of Dorothy declared today. "We're just poor people so we didn't have a chance."

Dorothy was charged with shooting Templeton during a party at her home at 26 Jane Street. It was alleged words passed between Templeton and the accused over the attention "Mickey" Connors, married "shiek," was paying Dorothy.

Dorothy will be sentenced Monday.

PLENTY OF CAPITAL AVAILABLE TO AID FARM OPERATIONS

Washington, June 18.—A plentiful supply of capital at reasonable rates to finance the movement of the agricultural crop and other farm operations, during the remainder of the year, is assured, G. A. Copher chairman of the farm loan board told International News Service today.

With $59,087,000 outstanding as direct loans and rediscounts from the intermediary credit banks the advance to farmers so far this year have been from $125,000,000 to $130,000,000. More than half of these obligations has been liquidated.

Farmers are paying from 4 to 4½ percent for their capital this season about a half percent under last year. Cooper did not anticipate any increase in money rates during the remainder of the year. He explained that at this rate farmers can operate economically from the capital supply standpoint.

A decided improvement in banking conditions is evident throughout the middle west, according to Cooper. He said that many farmers are borrowing from commercial banks at rates as low as four percent.

MODISH MITZI—What If It "Ain't Goin' To Rain No More?" By JAY V. JAY

This man is famous for his indifference. He has been dubbed a Lonely Soul by sympathetic women. He is called snobbish by some. Sophisticated by others. Alas! The heels in this picture are Mitzi's. Very new heels with a design studied with brilliant. Mitzi is quite conscious that the Indifferent Person is behind her. Perhaps he is even looking at her heels.

Just as the Indifferent Person was passing her Mitzi happened, ever so casually, of course, to take out her pocket atomizer and gently work it so that the most subtle of perfume, (a perfume most marvelously created for her type, so they say) filled the air.

How can the Indifferent Person remain indifferent? Not for long. Not under the influence of the mid-Victorian jewelry that Mitzi is wearing. The Indifferent Person is turning his head—and Mitzi sees him do it in the mirror. Her earrings and pendant have worked the charm.

"That Indifferent Person is staring around actually looking for some one," reports Polly from the window. "Is he?" guilelessly asks Mitzi. "To tell the truth, Pol, I don't think he is so dreadfully indifferent to... to novelties." "Oh," says Polly, "oh" Polly understands why Mitzi has been wearing them!

INTERESTING PROGRAM AT MISSIONARY MEETING

Wednesday afternoon was a red-letter occasion in the annals of the Women's Missionary Society of the First United Presbyterian Church, when the members entertained the Women's Missionary Society of the Second U. P. Church.

Mrs. J. P. Lytle, Mrs. E. C. Moorman and Mrs. Charles Ervin graciously received the guests in the church parlors, made fragrant with a profusion of flowers, which contributed to the pleasure of the guests, numbering more than 100.

Mrs. Moorman presided and after a few words of welcome, Mrs. Lytle led the devotional period.

After the usual routine of business, Mrs. John Davidson read an interesting paper on the early history of church music, dating back from early Bible times to the present which showed careful research. Mrs. C. P. Proudfoot followed with a reading in her usual delightful manner giving a portion of the biography of Mr. Henry W. Richards, a missionary in central Africa.

The program closed with prayer. A social hour was enjoyed and a delicious salad course served.

COMMENCEMENT

THOUSANDS of young people are this month facing the real tests of life with the closing behind them of the school's doors, and with diplomas in their possession they are eagerly looking ahead from one of the great turning points in human experience. It is a time when the youth is casting a final look behind him before plunging into the unknown future.

If such a young person is graduating for the final time, and is not going on for some further study, it is one of the most startling changes he will ever come up against. Up to now, a great deal has been done in the way of help for the student. The work has often seemed very difficult, yet help has always been available from teachers and very often from parents. Thus difficulties have tended to vanish as a usual thing.

But when the student gets out into the world, he suddenly finds that no one outside of his home feels this same keen interest in the novice in the field of business and industry. The newcomer is left to work out his own salvation very largely. If he falls down, no one but his own friends may care much.

It is the fine and splendid thing about the young people of this age, that while they realize quite well that they are going into a colder atmosphere, yet they have full faith in their own ability to meet this new situation. They rightly argue, that while the difficulties they have to meet will be much greater than they ever encountered before, yet every day they will be gaining new experiences and power with which to grapple with them.

If youth had the same caution, and timidity with which older people enter new experiences, the world would never get fair. But the face of youth is turned to unknown experience with serene faith that all things will work out, and they usually do for those who maintain the courage of these days of graduation.

SPEAKING OF SUMMER

WITH Summer officially but a few days off, although most of us are ready to admit that it has been here actually for some time, hopes are expressed that this year might upset precedent and turn out to be ideal. An ideal summer is suggested by some to be somewhat as follows:

An ideal summer would have a temperature sliding from 60 down to 72 at noon, with clear air, bright sunshine and only those showers which are necessary and do not interfere with picnics.

It would be a summer without an ice shortage, or the discovery of a new germ, and reduction of 50 per cent in the cost of ice cream.

It would be a summer when sport produced a super-Ruth, a better-than-Dempsey and another Man o' War.

It would see the beaches without a swimmer's cramp and the roads without an automobile tragedy. There would be sea serpents, but no sharks except a new and toothless variety.

It would be a summer of absolute silence on the part of divorce principals.

Well, let the new season be as ideal as it can.

ELIMINATE THE WASTE

FOR a number of years past it has been the earnest desire of the people to get the government out of business. In order to do this it has taken carefully considered planning and now the people are aware of the fact that business has a problem of its own, namely, the elimination of the waste in production and distribution. This is a problem that is being carefully studied by the leading business men of all industries throughout the nation. Another angle that confronts the people is the matter of local taxation. This is one that must be dealt with by the states, counties and cities, and it must be dealt with in a manner that does not savor of 'kid glove' methods. It may hurt a certain class of office holders, but it will save the balance of the people of the country large sums of money.

One thing is evident, and that is that the President does not desire to do anything that will change the prosperous condition in which this country now is.

BROTHERHOOD

Oh, I think as I sit at my window
And look at the world passing by,
And see care's plain traces on all of
The faces
How like all the others am I.
The boy on the wagon is working
For food and a few garments new.
He's out after money, for milk and
For honey
And I am out after it, too.
The people keep coming and going
And some of them plainly are sad.
And each one now faring this morning is bearing
A grief or a burden I've had;
And each one has lived as a baby.
And each one some evening shall

die,
And there's no denying, that each one
is trying
For the very same Heaven as I.
The men who are married are working
For their wives and their children,
no doubt,
That man with the team, has a glorious dream
For his babies he wants to work
out;
And if I could read it correctly,
I should know as he passes me by,
That he is out driving those horses
and striving
For the very same purpose, as I.
I think as I sit in my window,
How foolish I am in my pride,
In good or bad weather, we're all
here together
And whether we walk or we ride,
We must toil for the dreams which
we cherish

WILL THAT WOMAN EVER COME BACK FOR HER BABY?

Messrs. Louis Wooley and Ben Piers, this city, have been in Springfield the past week where they filled an engagement in a circus given there by the order of the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

The second matinee meeting of the Xenia Driving Club Friday afternoon drew a crowd large beyond the expectations of the club. The "Doctors" Race was won by Dr. Madden over Dr. Finley in straight heats.

Ten years ago a farmer near Greene County put his initials on a dollar and went to town and spent it with a merchant. Before the year was out he got his dollar back.

The O. S. and S. O. Home baseball team is scheduled to play two games, this Saturday, one with a Jamestown team and the other with a team from Bellbrook.

'How shall I curtain my French doors and casement windows' is a question which comes in to me frequently.

Of course, French doors, originally were not meant by the architect to be curtained at all; they were designed to give the home an effect of immensity—the eyes sweeping two or more rooms at a single glance.

But there are three conditions under which women often prefer to drape their French doors. 1. When the furniture in one room, or the general effectiveness, is not quite equal to that of the room on the other side of the glass door. In this case the less attractive room spoils the effect of the more attractive. 2. When the French doors are hung between a dining room and a living room and would violate the privacy of the dining room if undraped. 3. When the home is already too large and bare and coziness, rather than immensity is the aim.

Under these three conditions it is correct to curtain the doors in one of two ways: With side drapes (no top ruffle-valance) or with silk gauze attached to the door itself.

By the first method, the sidedrapes reach from the top of the doorway to the floor and are run on a brass rod by means of small brass rings attached to the curtains; in other words, they are simply draw-curtains wide enough to meet together when drawn over the door, but ordinarily kept pushed back against the hinged part of the doors. They may be made of rep, cretonne, silk, velour—in fact, of any desired material. Generally, however they match the window over-drapes. If you use a material which has an unattractive underside, (which will, of course, show through the door) you must line it with saten or silk muslin.

By the second method, run silk gauze or the new 'gold file' on brass rods at top and bottom of the door it self where the glass ends, thus stretching the material taut, though gathered slightly on the rods.

Casement windows are curtained as just described for French doors (the second method) with silk gauze, scrim net, or gold file "cased" top and bottom on rods.

New Easy Way To End NASAL CATARRH

Quick and sure; safe and no trouble—the new Way to get rid of loathsome Catarrh in nose and throat. It may be acute or it may be chronic—of years standing—you may have tried salves and ointments and other treatments.

You're probably disgusted and think you haven't a chance in the world of overcoming it.

Try once more—try this. Get a six ounce bottle of Kojene for 60 cents at Sayre & Hemphill's or any progressive druggist. Spray the nostrils with it twice a day for three or four days or until every Catarrh germ is destroyed and the nose is clean and clear.

Try once more and get rid of this obnoxious disease. Kojene will do it. If by any mishap it fails your money will be gladly returned.

Kojene is the world's most powerful, non-poisonous antiseptic—seven-fifty times as strong as highly flavored antiseptics—yet you can drink it with no ill effects.

If it won't conquer nasal catarrh and clean out every trace of mucous and soreness nothing will. adv

ROADS

Roads have always interested me. Perhaps mostly because they are the means whereby mankind has been able to get together and institute growth.

All over the earth roads tell the story of advancement and civilization. They lead to cities, to farms, to factories, to every enterprise in fact of which man is a part.

Like the network of nerves and blood vessels in the human frame, so are the roads in the living framework of a nation.

Just the minute that you are located off a road, you create a problem both for yourself and for those who have to do with you.

The road today has reached its highest perfection. An automobile has beaten the fastest train from San Francisco to New York city. How well I remember when a ten or 15 mile drive with a horse was a task for a day. Now we take more than that while we are waiting for our dinner to be cooked.

Marvelous has been the progress of the road, and mankind has advanced with it.

But the greatest appeal of any road lies in its poetry, its romance, its intricate shades of beauty.

I recently took a thousand mile drive in my car through the great state of New York. I purposely chose a route away from the main cities, taking a northern passage to Buffalo and a southerly way back. And what magnificent scenery and roads! I envied every farmer and country inhabitant along the way. I almost pitied those—including myself—who day by day entered the whirlpool of the city's turmoil.

There were winding roads to the top of great hills, and then into valleys, across level territory, along canals and railroads, and through quaint little towns that were a hundred years or more of age. It was Tagore who spoke so beautifully about the road being a part of the destination itself.

Fine, beautiful roads are as accurate an indication of a nation's character as its people. And the better the roads, the better the people are sure to be.

Health Hints
By the Father of Physical Culture
BERNARD MACADAM

While exercise is not advisable during the acute stages of headache, it will prove highly beneficial at other times. Long walks will build up the system and tend to prevent the congestion which is so important a factor in headaches of the migraine character.

Bending exercises of all kinds are especially to be recommended, especially those which stimulate the activity of the bowels, since the most essential factor in curing this class of headache, and also in preventing their recurrence is to keep the bowels open. Lying on the bed and raising the feet over the head, while keeping the knees straight, is one of the best of these. Another is to take a standing position and then bring up alternately the right and left knee, pressing it against the chest. The two hands should be put under the knee, for this purpose, and the knee made actually to touch the chest, if possible. Massage of the bowels, by means of the hands, fists or some mechanical appliance, is also of value. A thorough enema should be taken immediately upon the appearance of the first symptoms of the headache, and daily for some days afterwards.

Next to migraine, neurasthenic headaches are, possibly the most common. There is usually a feeling of constriction about the head, in headaches of this character, as though a rubber band had been placed about the forehead, completely encircling the head. Frequently a limited area of pain geometrical in shape is noted. The patient may say that the pain area is triangular, square, or of some other geometrical form. These patients are usually more or less chronic sufferers; their headache recurring at stated intervals, and of highly nervous disposition.

The first and most important essential in the treatment of this variety of headache is rest. The patient should have an abundance of sleep and quiet for the mind and body, with no disturbance of the emotions. He should concentrate his attention upon the spot where the ribs divide; that is the "solar plexus," and relax that area, which will usually be found to be under tension. Deep breathing exercises, and the practice of "seeing black," so as to induce relaxation of the mind, will also prove highly beneficial.

AVIATORS BATTLE FIRES AND BUGS IN NEW AIR CONQUEST

Washington, June 18—Three tremendously important developments in commercial aeronautics—the Ford freight service, the aerial battle against agricultural insect pests in the South and the use of seaplanes to fight forest fires in Canada—were described by Geoffrey L. Cabot, president of the National Aeronautical Association of the United States, as outstanding accomplishments in man's conquest of the air today.

No great demand exists for aerial passenger service so far in this country, according to Cabot although he predicted that not far in the future this channel of transportation will be remarkably developed.

"There is, however, a tremendous demand for airplanes for private use," Cabot said. "I am informed that many airplane factories are behind in their orders for this class of machine. Many persons in America are buying aircraft for private pleasure used."

EUROPE ADVANCED

Secretary of Commerce Hoover has stated that commercial aviation is not developed in the United States to the extent it has progressed in Europe.

There it was pointed out, air lines connect many of the important cities. Regular schedules are maintained and although most of the companies are operating partially on Government subsidies there appears to be indications of their commercial success.

"The most important development in commercial aviation today in America is the inauguration of the freight and express service between Detroit and Chicago by the Ford Motor Company," Cabot told the International News Service.

"Service is being maintained with remarkable regularity and give promise of rapid extension to other cities. Five more planes are under construction for this service. No doubt the service will be continued and rapidly extended."

"Plans at present are to transport freight alone, but it is intended hereafter, in case of insistent popular demand, to begin passenger transportation, first in a tentative way in connection with the freight service, and later on special airplanes to be built by the Pullman company. The planes will be operated for the comfort and convenience of the public and will be the last word in passenger transportation."

INDUCE OTHERS

Cabot expressed the opinion that the Ford venture will induce other corporations to enter into this channel of transportation. Its successful operation will increase the confidence of the financial world in the stability and probability of success of well-managed air transportation services. "Greater impetus to this development would be given by a stabilizing Federal law giving to the traveling public the guarantee of the Federal Government that pilots have been examined and licensed," Cabot continued.

Eighteen airplanes are under construction by a New York manufacturing plant for use in the South for sprinkling arsenic and lime from the air on the cotton fields, aiming at the destruction of pests menacing the Southern crops.

"The planes will be used also against insect pests on the peach, apple and pecan trees," Cabot said.

It is believed by the Aeronautical Association that more than half of the 30,000,000 acres of cotton plantations, can be treated successfully with antinsect preparations from the air.

Forest fire fighting from the air in Ontario has been extremely successful according to Cabot's information.

Cabot called attention to the establishment of an air passenger service between Chicago and New Orleans, with St. Louis and Memphis as intermediate stopping points. He said it was significant of the development of aeronautics for passenger transportation.

BORAH STATEMENT CAUSES REJOICING

Pekin, June 18—Senator William E. Borah's statement in Washington that there is nothing in the Chinese situation necessitating any change in America's traditional friendliness for China caused general satisfaction and rejoicing in the capital today.

"The senator's statement may be regarded as a reiteration of the American principle of good will, fair play and justice in international relations," said C. T. Wang former premier, who was a delegate to the arms conference.

"The republic is glad to know of the expression of such good will."

SINGLE TREE BEARS ALL KINDS OF FRUIT BUT IT'S ALL GRAFT

Los Angeles, June 18—The dweller may soon have a little orchard of his own in the six feet or so of ground allotted to him while he inhabits the earth.

All that is needed is space for one tree to grow. From it he may pick Jonathans, Delicious or Ben Davis apples. If he is enterprising he may also reach up and pick off pears or peaches.

But it's all a graft, however you look at it.

The biggest grafter of the species lives in Iowa—in Waterloo, to be exact. His name is F. W. Sargent, a carpenter.

He has one tree of a size to bear fruit in abundance. But from it he plucks twelve kinds of apples.

Ten years ago it was an apple tree of the Esau variety. Sargent began grafting other varieties on it, in the season when grafting would get results. Last year twelve of the "grafts" bore fruit. This year he expects the picking to be better.

Sargent generously explained his system of grafting.

"You must have an established tree to get the best results," he said.

"Planting does not produce fruit as quickly as grafting."

"I like to take a one-year-old tree and trim it down to about three feet, leaving five or six buds, each on different sides of the tree, the lowest about a foot above the ground. This will make the sturdiest, strongest tree, as branches will grow out from all sides."

LIMITED SPACE

"I decide what kind of apple I'd like to have in my own orchard and graft that kind on to my tree," Sargent continued. "This one, with the twelve varieties of apples growing on it in one season, I started experimenting with ten or twelve years ago. Each year I've added one or more species of apple by grafting. Last year I got a bushel of excellent eating apples from this one tree."

"I started this grafting because I did not want to wait for the trees I planted to grow large enough to bear fruit."

"Besides, I've only got a city lot," Sargent added, "and do not have room for a large number of trees. Therefore, I've concentrated my efforts and am able to grow much of the fruits and other produce my family needs."

BELL COMPANY WILL BUILD NEW HOME

A new general telephone building, 324 feet in height with a floor space of 308,000 square feet, is to be erected by The Ohio Bell Telephone Company at Cleveland at a cost of $4,000,000, according to word received by H. W. Cleaver, local commercial manager. The building will be completed within the next three years and will be the general headquarters of the company as well as house three of the present Cleveland central offices, the long distance boards, offices of the Northern division of the company, the Cleveland offices and the offices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

It will provide room for 2,000 company employees. The building will be the tallest in Cleveland, topping the tallest sky-scraper by seventy feet.

Mrs. Charles Armstrong and two daughters of Springfield, O., are the guests of Mrs. Armstrong's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Kump of North Detroit Street.

HOME GRADUATES URGED TO HONOR PARENTS, TEACHER, FLAG BY COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Graduates of the O. S. and S. O. Home were urged to honor their father and mother, flag and teacher, by A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, O., former state director of agriculture who delivered the commencement address at the state institution, Wednesday night.

To honor one's parents is one of the primary rules of life, the speaker said, and he told the graduates to love the flag next, since it is closely associated with their fathers, who served under it in several wars. He stressed the important part the teacher plays in molding the character and life of the young boy or girl, and the reverence that is in turn due her.

Mr. Sandles' good points were interspersed with witty remarks. He declared that success could only be attained through hard work and advised the pupils along industrious paths.

Of the forty-five members of the discharged class of the institution, the following high school graduates received their diplomas at the exercises:

High school: Frank Theodore Philby, Nina M. Slaughterbeck, Ora Eugene Smith, Stenography and typewriting, Irma May Noland, Nellie May DeVeny, Ruth Sarah Marsh, Hanna Allen, Margaret E. Dolf Luque, Cincinnati slabsman, hurled a nice game Wednesday against the New York Giants beating them by a 1 to 0 score. This marked the Giants' sixth consecutive defeat. The Gotham tribe is not faring any to well on its western trip and if the Reds can hand them the same dose that the Pirates did they won't go home quite so cocky. At present the leaders are about three full games ahead of the Redlegs. Of the fourteen games the Giants have played to date on foreign soil they have won but six. They opened their trip at St. Louis and took the series there, winning three and losing one. At Chicago they broke even with the Cubs as each club won two games. They moved over to Pittsburgh and were handed four defeats in a row.

It is beginning to look as though the Chicago Cubs got the worst end of the deal when they traded Grantham, Niehaus and Aldridge to the Pirates for Grimm, Maranville and Cooper. Cooper, veteran left hander, has won but one game out of six to date. Maranville, who broke his leg while he was in training camp, has proved of little value to the Cubs so far. Grimm was the only one that was really worth train fare as he is playing good ball and hitting the aggregate .361. As for the Pirates end of the deal, Niehaus was traded to Cincinnati for Sheehan who will no doubt help McKechnie's hurling corps out quite a bit. Aldridge has been tossing good ball, winning four games while he has lost three. He has fanned twenty-six and walked twenty-two in the seven games he has worked. Grantham, who had a tough time in getting started at the first sack, has finally hit his stride and is holding down the first cushion in nice fashion. He is hitting a .342 clip but has not as many hits as Grimm as he was benched for quite a spell.

Since Rogers Hornsby took over the reins of the St. Louis Cardinals they have been showing championship form. Hornsby was appointed manager May 31 and at that time the Cards were in the cellar. They came to life however, and handed the Reds four defeats. They came from the bottom to fifth place in a week and still remain there just outside of first division. They took the series from Brooklyn while they beat the Phillies five in succession. They have won thirteen of their last seventeen games and if they continue at this rate the race will tighten a plenty.

Gene Leakey, former Reserve second baseman, is now holding down the middle station for the Bowersville Bayliffs. Leakey played nice ball for the locals and was one of the best lead off men they ever had. He was at bat twenty-two times and got on base fourteen times. He drew six walks, got five hits, and got safe on errors three times. He was whiffed eight times. He hit .227 with the Reserves which is a bit light for him. Last season he hit .274. He will make the Bowersville bunch a good second sacker as he knows the game and is fast and a good fielder.

ROBERT ROPE WINS CUP IN FIRST ANNUAL ANTIOCH AQUATIC CARNIVAL WEDNESDAY

Robert Rope, of Buffalo, N. Y., A. U. champion of the Niagara district, was awarded a silver loving cup for high individual scoring honors in the first annual swimming meet of Antioch College held at Grinnell Park Wednesday afternoon. The battle for high scoring honors was bitterly contested by Nelson Chick of California, who tied Rope for first place in the regular events, each man ending with nineteen points. In a final diving contest between the two athletes to determine a winner, the honors went to Rope.

Rope, who is a freshman at Antioch College, is an experienced swimmer and displayed fine form in the meet. Chick is also an expert but not as finished a performer as Rope.

Aquatic features which included Chinese life saving exhibitions by Duke DuBois and Robert Rope, interlarded the program of swimming events. Miss Margaret Sutherland contributed to the feature performance with fancy diving exhibitions. Sprague topped third place in the race for individual scoring honors among the boys with fifteen points to his credit with Brown close behind with fourteen.

Miss Ruth Harker captured first honors in scoring in the girls' division with eighteen points followed by Miss Margaret Sutherland in second place. Miss Rebecca Dunning and Miss Dorothy Lies tied for third place with ten points each. High scores were presented with ribbons by the college.

Weeping clouds held up the water carnival for some time. The banks of the Little Miami River were lined with spectators who turned out to cheer the respective contestants to victory despite inclement weather.

The relay race the first event on the program, was won by the team of Chick, Light, Parke and Rope. Brown and Sprague captured the next race, the hand paddling canoe event, over Coskery and Croft, who places second and the Barr-Peterson team, which came in third.

Rope demonstrated early superiority over Chick by defeating the latter in the 200-yard dash for men, although Chick was a close second. Gilmore and Light took third and fourth places respectively. Chick retaliated in the short fifty-yard dash by beating Rope who came in second. Gilmore, Light and Moran pulled in back of the leaders.

The race for high scoring honors clearly lay between Rope and Chick. It was noticed early in the meet as the pair was easily superior to the other entries in the major events.

Rope took the fifty-yard breast stroke for men. Second place went to Ramage, with Moran and Kinley winning third and fourth. Chick beat his rival in the 100-yard dash for men, with Rope second, and Gilmore, Owen and Parke bringing up the rear.

Sprague was named the winner in the fancy diving for men followed by Brown, Ramage, Light and Coskery.

In the women events, Miss Harker took first place in the twenty-five yard dash with Miss Florence Woodruff, second; Miss Sutherland, third; Miss Dunning, fourth; and Miss Lies, fifth.

The Agnes Baron-Genevieve Tanner team crossed the finish line first in the hand paddling canoe race for women with Ruth Harker and Dorothy Lies second. Miss Harker won the egg race with Miss Sutherland second. In this novel event, the girl entries carried an egg in a spoon held in their mouths. The winner still held the egg in the spoon when she crossed the mark.

The canoe tilting races for men and women proved to be the feature events of the program. Canoes were manned by a crew of two. One paddled while the other tilted with a long bamboo pole padded at one end. The girls were somewhat handicapped in this event and experienced difficulty in using the pole.

The Misses Brown and Tanner won from the field among the women while Brown and Sprague withstood their opponents' battering long enough to win among the men.

The water carnival was sponsored by the sport department of the school and was the outgrowth of friendly rivalry and impromptu races staged among the students.

TENNIS TOURNEY TO BE AT WILBERFORCE

Wilberforce University will be the scene of the second annual tournament of the Mid-Western Tennis Association, which will be held Monday and Tuesday, June 22 and 23 under the auspices of the Mid-Western Tennis Association.

The championship tournament of 1925 promises to be the most successful event ever held in the middle west. The singles championship in 1924 was won by Edward Simmons, of Linden Community Center, Dayton. William E. Johnson, Wilberforce, O., assistant treasurer of the association, has charge of the arrangements. The playing rules adopted by the American Tennis Association will govern the meet.

Entries should be addressed to Dean Mohr, secretary of the association and must be received before 5 p.m., Friday, June 19.

XENIA GOLFERS WIN FROM MIDDLETOWN IN NASSAU MATCH

Local golfers were in fine form, and the Xenia Country Club won its first inter-city match of the 1925 season by defeating the Middletown Golf Club 49 to 15 in a match over the local course Wednesday afternoon.

The match was held up for nearly an hour by a downpour of rain that soaked the course and made high-grade playing impossible. The match was staged as scheduled under conditions that tested both the golfers' ability and patience.

Fifty-two players participated in the match, twenty-six players representing each club. Luncheon was served the visiting and local golfers following the match at the club house.

A victory over Middletown is considered quite a feat and undoubtedly boosts the stock of the local game under the instruction of Bob MacKay, new "pro."

No announcements have been made of arrangements for future matches.

CAPITAL FINISHES SEASON WITH WIN

Capital University, of Columbus, closed its 1925 summer baseball season by administering a neat defeat to Antioch College at Columbus Wednesday by a score of 11 to 10 in an eleven inning game. Capital pronounced Antioch easily earlier in the season but the Katherman coached team found harder sledding in the return game.

Antioch overcame a four run lead in the seventh to forge ahead by scoring six runs. Capital tied the score again in the eighth. The ninth was scoreless while each team made a run in the tenth. The eleventh and final frame was a hectic inning. Capital attempted to put the game on the well known ice by scoring three runs.

Antioch did not give up and made a great bid for the game by scoring twice, one short of a tie. Errors marred the game. The score by innings:

"Home-coming and Community" Day at Grassy Run, will be held Sunday, June 21, it is announced.

Grassy Run Friends' meeting was established as a meeting ninety-six years ago, and meetings have been held regularly since. As a monthly meeting, it was formerly joined with Dover and Jamestown Friends meetings. Now each has a monthly session in itself. The present clarks are J. B. and Harriet Peelle.

Many have gone from this meeting as workers and ministers into other communities. At this meeting the gift of ministry was recognized in John Henry and Robert Douglass, Isaiah Peelle and a number of others. The wife of John Henry Douglass, Miriam Carter was born and reared in the community.

Lewis Hunt, John Pidgeon and others have been resident ministers. At one time, there were eight resident ministers. Garnett Januvar and Denver Driscoll are two former members who are now ministers in other churches.

The meeting has long been the home meeting of the Peelle, Bentley, Mills, Hunt, Carter, Gallimore, Hoover, Pearson and other families.

On the committee appointed to ask for the establishment of the meeting were William Peelle, Cephas Atkinson, and John Carter. Descendants of these men are now regular attendants at the meeting.

June 21 has been chosen as a day when all former members or members who are now non-residents will be welcomed back to their old home meeting.

Anyone dwelling in the community who is not a member is extended an invitation to attend the gathering with his friends and neighbors.

Westboro, where the Rev. Mr. Leasure has charge of the night services, is planning to attend both morning and afternoon services. The morning is arranged as an open meeting. The afternoon speaker is Judge Cleveland of Wilmington.

A basket dinner is planned for the noon hour. All are invited to come for the day with their well filled baskets.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

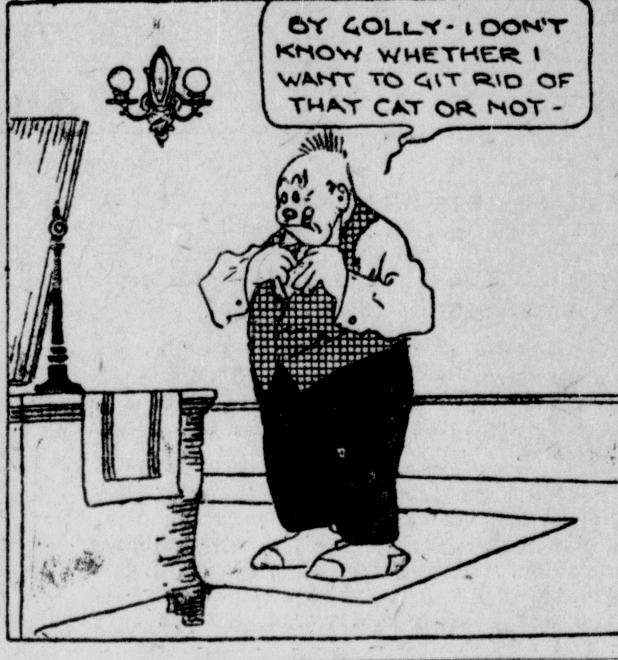

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Sohn's Drug Store is my appointed agent in your city. If you live out of town I'll gladly send you free particulars.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LXXII.
Mr. Loph is going with us on the yachting party, but Elsie Marshall isn't. Aunt Mary announced at the tea table in the garden the next afternoon.

"Michael won't care to go then," Lilah smiled.

Aunt Mary glanced at her furtively, then winked at Michael. "She is going on location in the mountains with a company," she explained.

"Can't you find another little playmate for my husband, someone who won't bore him like his wife does?"

Aunt Mary's brow clouded. "I think you are speaking seriously, pet, and I believe you are wronging Michael."

His eyes were on the ground. "I'm sure he loves you very deeply. It must hurt him to hear you say such things, and you've made many remarks like that in the last few days. I know I haven't any right meddling in the business of you two, but I want to help you avoid the unhappiness that comes into married life when husbands and wives lose their respect for each other."

They had never seen Aunt Mary in such a mood, both were moved. Their glances met. "You're right, Auntie. I don't mean to be mean when I say such things, but I know I am."

"And I guess she had grounds for such remarks," Michael was moved to say—to his own surprise, perhaps, as well as to the others. "I did sort of flirt with Miss Marshall."

Aunt Mary was amused. "Confession is good for the soul." She sighed. "You two will always get along better if you aren't afraid to confess such things. Of course I realize that you'll often fib to each other about big things as well as little things, because the truth hurts."

Lilah, after a thoughtful moment, said: "I'd like to make an agreement with Michael that we will always tell the truth to each other no matter how much it hurts."

"No—we couldn't do that," Michael responded. "No matter how sincere we were in making the promise we wouldn't adhere to it. There would be times when we wouldn't tell the truth because we wouldn't want to hurt."

"I believe we could; and even if you aren't always entirely frank with me, I am going to tell you exactly what I think if husbands and wives cannot be frank with each other, pray tell me, with whom can they be frank?"

The answer is no one. All of us are hypocrites in our relations with people. We smile when we should glower, and we praise when we should condemn. Lilah finished her cup of tea. "You confess then, that there are times when you deceive me—about, well the most sacred of things—"

"That isn't a fair way to put it. I don't mean that all of us live constant lives of deception. I mean that in specific instances we do not act as we feel."

Michael had never thought about this before but now he found himself full of thoughts about the hypocrisy that is so large a part of the social and business relations of people.

"There are persons we do not care for in the least that we endeavor to appear to like. We receive guests who bore us, and we call persons pretty whom we know are ugly, and—"

Aunt Mary jumped up and took Lilah by the hand. "Come on, let's go for a walk, and let him rave on."

He felt exaltedly philosophic, and her rudeness annoyed him. He relaxed into a chair when they were gone and contemplated the sky. Only a few more days now, and he would have to resume the office grind. How pleasant life was out here! Why shouldn't he accept Aunt Mary's offer to make him her manager? He was wearied by the thought of having to go back home and to work?

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I set down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Things We Can't Afford—We Get!

Us Americans are a bull headed crew all right, all right! Just let some chap invent a luxury for the home or for women or girls and right away learned economists will stand on their heads and "view with alarm" the extravagant notions of the American public!

But the luxuries SELL! And WE BUY 'EM!

That's one fine thing about us folks—we sure do like this business of LIVING. Boiled down it proves we're a nation of he-blooded, had knuckled, free-handed hombies who realize we've got not more than 840 months to live in a wonderful country and that while we're HERE we're going to get 100 percent value out of it!

And 840 months is 70 years!

Just whisper—only WHISPER to one of us Americans that maybe we can't AFFORD an electric washing machine or a modern cook stove or a new automobile or a diamond ring and right THEN is when we hitch up our socks, take a new notch in the belt, click the old jaw and BUY the blamed thing—WHATEVER it is!

And that's why we're the most progressive, modern, up to date crowd of folks on earth! Thousands of men in hundreds of factories supply us with luxuries at the same time making GOOD WAGES which they in turn spend for some OTHER LUXURY—the whole scheme of things working out to the IMMENSE BENEFIT of all of us!

If this sounds like "making the Eagle howl", I'm perfectly content to accept the charge. I like the old bird and like the idea of being around where he is.

JACK WILLETT.

OUR LITTLE NELL'S COME BACK FWTHUR!

Just as we were all ready to tell you some of the splendid features of the Overland, Willys-Knight and Studebaker cars and requesting that you stop in some night on your way home and buy one, comes the news that some fool German named Miethe, a high school teacher in Charlottenburg, Germany, has up and DISCOVERED HOW TO MAKE GOLD!!

And now he and a Prof. Gaschler are sending over a bird named George Schultze to meet up with J. Pierpont Morgan, Rockefeller and the Carnegie Institute to start gold making on a commercial basis!

Can you blame Verne and me for not saying anything about our automobiles? Last week we did just a fair job of prophesying on the Auto Bootlegger and we'd like to do another job like that here on this Gold Manufacturing stunt but so far we haven't been able to get our wits together! Its too big a problem! Pierp and John D. sure need that gold these days.

So now that gold is going to be turned out like sheet rock, beaver board and spades, we won't ask you to pay "hard money" for our cars. Just bring in anything you have,—old dishes, coal scuttles, flasks, mustache cups, wrist mits, bustles or bootjacks and we'll make a trade of some sort.

Certainly we aim to keep step with the times! But COME IN!

HARRY.

Snap! Wotta WE care for G-o-d!

Shorty Says:—

If Jack really BELIEVES what he's holierin' and whoopin' about up top of page, I'm going to back him in a corner and WHISPER—just whisper—"I'm A LUXURY" and see if he'll break down and give me more pay! I've been called a lot of things and mebbe I AM a luxury—I dunno.

If this works out all right and Jack falls for it, I aim to get me a new skillet. The one I got has a crack in it and it leaves a crease in eggs and ham and steak and such when I fry same. I like luxury myself—in some things.

SENATOR ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE DIES

GEORGE E. HUDSON QUITS COMMISSION; JOHN PRUGH NAMED

Mayor Gives Absence as Reason—New Member is Ex-Councilman

George E. Hudson, mayor of Xenia and member of the City Commission, mailed his resignation of both offices to H. L. Smith, president of the commission, it was revealed Thursday. President Smith read the letter to members of the commission in recess session Monday night and it was accepted.

John W. Prugh, a member of the old city council, was appointed by the commission Monday to fill the vacancy and complete the term of Mr. Hudson, which expires in January, 1926.

Mr. Hudson, who is away from Xenia, declared in the letter in giving a reason for resigning, that he expected to be absent the greater part of the year, and left his resignation to be accepted at the pleasure of the commission. Regret was expressed by the members when apprised of the loss of Mr. Hudson.

The letter follows: "As I expect to be absent the greater part of this year, I herewith resign the offices of mayor and commissioner to take effect at the pleasure of the commission."

The letter was received by President Smith nearly five weeks ago but no action in naming a successor was taken until the Monday meeting, pending a selection. In the meantime the resignation was kept a secret.

Plans of Mr. Hudson during the year are indefinite but it is understood he will be at Chautauque, N. Y. Mr. Hudson was serving his first term as city commissioner. He was elected in November, 1922, and appointed mayor of Xenia a position he has held jointly with his duties as commissioner for four years.

The appointment of Mr. Prugh is for the office of commissioner and does not extend to combine the duties of mayor, it is announced. No action was taken by the commission with reference to the appointment of a mayor at the Monday meeting and no selection has been made.

The commission is happy over the selection of an experienced man to fill the vacancy. Mr. Prugh, who accepted the appointment immediately, was a member of the old city council for a number of years where he acquired experience in city affairs and will make a valuable addition to the commission it is believed.

WRECK DEATH LIST NOW NUMBERS 44

Hackettstown, N. J., June 18.—The death list in the Lackawanna railroad wreck near here, mounted to forty-four today, with the death of another, and chances of mounting still higher.

The bodies of the Chicago victims were to be sent west on a special train today. Meanwhile work of investigating the disaster was continued.

James Mayberry, Jr., chief of the railroad division of the New Jersey state board of public utilities commissioners was prepared to submit the report of his investigations to three other members of the commission at Trenton. He said he was satisfied that sand and silt, washed over the tracks by the heavy rain was the primary cause of the wreck.

This was in accord with the statement of E. M. Rine, general manager of the Lackawanna, who summed up his findings with the statement: "An act of God."

Industrial Employment Is Satisfactory Survey Shows

Federal Employment Services Says No Great Amount of Unemployment Exists—Automotive Industry Adding To Forces

Washington, June 18.—Industrial employment in April was "quite satisfactory" throughout the country, the United States employment service announced today in making public a survey of working conditions during May.

"The upward trend noted in employment in April was sustained," the report said. "This increase is not large, but it is gratifying to note that there is no great amount of unemployment apparent in any section of the country."

Noting further curtailment of bituminous coal mining during the past thirty days, the report said that a number of mines were entirely closed and that many of those still open were operating on a two or three day per week basis, while a number of the miners had found employment on road construction and seasonal farm work.

The iron and steel industry slightly curtailed operations in some plants last month, causing a decrease in the number of employees, but with few exceptions textile mills operated on a satisfactory schedule.

"The encouraging feature of this report," said Francis L. Jones, director of the employment service, "is that the automotive industry is adding to its working forces."

"The increased demand for all classes of farm labor in practically every state is affording employment to large numbers of men while some localities report a shortage of skilled agricultural help."

"There is no apparent letup in building construction work and all building tradesmen are able to find employment. The building of state and county roads is now well under way and is affording a large amount of employment."

CONSOLIDATION OF COAL MINES URGED IN BANKER'S TALK

Merger Would Cut Expenses and Benefit Public He Says

Chicago, June 18.—A program of consolidation of coal mining companies was advanced as "equally important to the industry and to the public," by Robert K. Cassatt, president of Cassatt and Company, Philadelphia bankers, at today's session of the eighth annual meeting here of the National Coal Association.

Declaring that no banker could do justice to the subject of extension of credit to coal companies without pointing out "the question of labor supply and its compensation," Cassatt stated: "In districts where the compensation demanded by labor seems excessive, bankers will hesitate to advance funds, and the flow of capital to such districts will gradually dry up. Conversely, where profits seem to depend on abnormal low wages, bankers will be very cautious in making loans."

He pointed out the "manifest advantages of mergers" as follows:

1. Economy in overhead and selling expense.
2. Economy in the purchasing department.
3. Correction of destructive competitive conditions, as distinguished from combinations to control prices.

"I know that I am here on delicate ground and that the law is intended very properly to prevent any approach of monopoly, but what I have in mind is very different. No monopoly in the bituminous coal trade is, in my opinion, possible. I doubt if any one company has ever mined over 4 per cent of the national production, and I do not believe that either the law-making bodies or the public will object to efforts by you men tending only to the elimination of loss and the realization of a reasonable profit."

"No mergers, such as I suggest, should have any other end in view and, in any case, monopoly injurious to the public is, in my opinion, impossible in your industry because of the vast undeveloped coal resources of our country. Any unusual increase in the selling price of coal always promotes immediate and rapid increase in potential production. It was so after the great antitrust strike of 1902 and after the Great War. The old rule of supply and demand always governs and always will."

"4. Larger companies mean greater financial strength, which in turn permits the installation of the most modern machinery, with consequent reduction in cost."

"5. A company operating a large number of mines has a tremendous advantage over the operation of a single unit. It can get cheaper power; it can give better service to its customers, and it can in times of surplus production secure greater economy in operation through shutting down some units and operating others on full time."

"On this point I know of several combinations of formerly competing companies which have followed this principle these last two years and have made small profits; whereas, had the old status been in existence, each of the constituent companies would have tried to keep running, and every one would, I am sure, have suffered heavy loss. Very large mergers are desirable in the coal trade, but haste should be made slowly. The first step should be the formation of local mergers to be later again combined with other combinations in other districts as experience shows this can best be done."

GIRL DROWNED FROM DECK OF LINER BUT DETAILS LACKING

Two Cousins Ended Lives By Leap From Ship—Family Scouts Suicide

New York, June 18.—The parents of Elizabeth Mary Cromwell, twenty-one year old society girl and sculptress, were awaiting further details today of their daughter's drowning at sea from the liner Veendam bound for Rotterdam.

"Elizabeth was too timid ever to think of jumping overboard," said Lincoln C. Cromwell, her father, today at his home. "We believe she was a victim of vertigo as she was always easily disturbed by height and motion."

"Two years ago when she went abroad, Elizabeth was greatly frightened when the ship ran into a storm. She showed signs of nervousness also when she was aboard our yacht. Elizabeth was very happy when she left here Saturday. Our family doctor recently inoculated her for typhoid and said she was in perfect health. He is certain she was the victim of sudden vertigo."

A cablegram from Mrs. Stockmiller of Chicago, cousin of Mrs. Cromwell, who sailed with her, reported her companion lost overboard last Tuesday but gave no further details. Six years ago, Misses Gladys and Dorothea Cromwell, second cousins of Elizabeth Cromwell, leaped to their death from the liner Lorraine leaving a note reading:

"We intend to end it all." Their action was attributed to a nervous breakdown incurred from war service with the Red Cross.

HARVEST HANDS ARE NOT NEEDED NOW

Columbus, O., June 18.—Ohio men unemployed today were advised by Director of Industrial Relations Witter not to accept work in Kansas and Oklahoma wheat fields. Witter pointed out that the federal farm labor director at Kansas City has requested that idle Ohioans be discouraged from "flocking to western states for work."

Harvest began ten days earlier than normal, it was said, and a sufficient amount of farm help is available there. Director Witter said that need of help in the northern spring wheat states may come later and that timely announcement will be made.

COURT EXPECTED TO CALL WITNESS WHEN STATE IGNORES HIM

Testimony May Complicate Case On Both Sides In Murder Trial

Chicago, June 18.—Dr. Chas. C. Fauman, the dapper little president of the National University of Sciences, was expected to be called to the witness stand today by order of Judge Thomas J. Lynch and not by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, despite the fact that he has all along been considered the prosecution's star witness against William D. Shepherd, on trial on a charge of having murdered his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

Fauman, although also under indictment as a confessed accessory to the alleged feeding of typhoid germs to McClintock, practically stands repudiated by Crowe, inasmuch as the latter has informed the court that "the state cannot vouch for him."

Judge Lynch, in the face of opposition by Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien for the defense today has intimated his intention of assuming responsibility for placing Fauman on the stand by ruling from the bench. "It would be an abuse of the discretion of the court if the court didn't call him as a court witness. I will call him and ask him his name, and address and his occupation," the court stated.

Should the court adhere to this ruling today, it will enable both sides to cross examine Fauman, a move that has placed the defense in a peculiar legal position.

Fauman's germ story is the key stone of the whole prosecution. Without it the state has no case. With it Assistant State's Attorney Savage believes they have introduced sufficient other circumstantial evidence to justify a verdict of guilty.

The position of the state was explained briefly. Crowe said he was taking no chances. If he called Fauman as his witness he would be bound by Fauman's answers and this he didn't want to do and wouldn't do. If the state called Fauman and Fauman should have repudiated his confession, he could do so by his answer to the first question. That would be in reply to the query whether or not he knew Shepherd.

If Fauman said he had never met Shepherd that would be the end of the trial. State would be prohibited from questioning him further for it would be unable to prove that "Billy McClintock's death was by a 'criminal agency' and that Shepherd was that agency."

As a court witness, however, if Fauman were to make that answer, Crowe would be in a position to show that Fauman had given contrary testimony previously.

He could show that Fauman was involved with Shepherd in an alleged plot to murder Billy and get his $1,000,000 estate, and point out that he repeated this story to the grand jury over and over.

Since his indictment, Fauman has been out on bond but living at a hotel under guard at the expense of the state.

HARD ON PETTERS

Columbus, O., June 18.—In an effort to put an end to the numerous complaints against petting parties and other alleged traffic law violations along the rural sections of Franklin County's highways, Sheriff Gump has appointed twenty-five men in various parts of the county as special deputies who will operate in plain clothes and whose identity will not be disclosed.

GANNA IS SUCCESS AS COMEDienne

Paris, June 18.—Stage celebrities of Paris were outspoken in their praise today of Ganna Walska-McCormick, wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, as a comedienne and actress in contrast to their previous sharp criticism of her as an opera singer. Following her successful appearance last night as the "Duchess de Mauleverrier" in "Le Habit Vert" (The Green Dress) before a colorful audience at a charity performance she said she probably would devote her future artistic efforts to drama rather than singing.

NEW CITY COMMISSIONER NAMED

JOHN W. PRUGH

Following the resignation of Mayor George E. Hudson from the city commission, commissioners appointed John W. Prugh, former councilman, to serve his unexpired term. Commissioners are expected to soon elect one of their number as mayor. The term of Mr. Hudson would have expired at the first commission meeting in January, 1926. He was serving his first term on the commission.

MAG MILLAN SHIPS TO START SATURDAY TO GREENLAND PORT

Aviators Will Depend on Radio—Amateurs To Form Part Of Chain

Aboard the Polar Ship Peary, June 18.—(By Radio)—The Peary was off Wiscasset, Maine, today and her commander, Donald B. MacMillan, was on shore having proceeded overland from Boston, sailing point of the Peary.

After taking on more equipment, both the Peary and her companion ship the Bowdoin, will shove off on Saturday for their first northern objective, Etah, Greenland.

In the final analysis, the lives of the naval aviators who are to assist MacMillan in his hunt for the missing Amundsen polar expedition and to discover a new continent, will depend on radio and actually on the efficiency of the little 201-A tubes.

The intrepid explorer and his crew are banking on young America as their connecting link with civilization in establishing communication with them when in the frozen north.

Amateurs may form an important part of the radio chain which will receive the press messages reporting progress of the trip.

Commander Eugene F. McDonald, in charge of radio for MacMillan said today that this press dispatch would be picked up by boys and girl members of the American radio relay league who will "stand by" when the expedition invades the polar regions.

STATE RESTS CASE IN TRIAL OF KIRBY

Cleveland, June 18.—The state rested its case against Josiah Kirby at 9:45 this morning. Immediately upon the announcement the court excused the jury until 1 p.m. and Attorney Luther Day, of counsel for Kirby began his argument asking that the court direct a verdict of not guilty by the jury on charges of larceny of shares of preferred stock in the Cleveland Discount Company.

Kirby has been on trial for the past week as a result of a state investigation of the collapse of the gigantic concern, which he founded and directed until 1921. This is the second trial for the financier as a result of the state probe. He formerly had been acquitted of charges of making a false financial statement.

DOROTHY PERKINS TO PAY MURDER PENALTY WITH LONG SENTENCE

Stenographer Convicted of Slaying Lover by New York Jury

New York, June 18.—Dorothy Perkins, 17 year old telephone operator, convicted of first degree manslaughter for the murder of "Tommy" Templeton, her admirer, faced a ten to twenty year prison sentence as she sobbed in her cell today in Jefferson Market prison.

The blonde, bobbed-haired Dorothy, the youngest woman ever to be tried for murder in New York state, was reported to be in a highly nervous condition, following her series of collapses during the trial.

When the jury returned its verdict, shortly before midnight, Dorothy fainted in the arms of her lawyer. She was carried from the court room, crying: "Mamma, mamma, oh mamma."

Four of the jurors favored a first degree murder verdict, it was learned. No juror advocated acquittal but one suggested a recommendation for mercy based on the youth of the accused which was rejected by the other jurors.

"There have been two many shootings by women," said Judge McIntyre in discharging the jury. "This verdict may stop women from shooting men in the future."

The jury returned its verdict a few minutes before midnight last night after deliberating two hours and forty-one minutes.

"Dorothy didn't get a fair trial," Mrs. Rudolph Perkins, mother of Dorothy declared today. "We're just poor people so we didn't have a chance."

Dorothy was charged with shooting Templeton during a party at her home at 26 Jane Street. It was alleged words passed between Templeton and the accused over the attention "Mickey" Connors, married "shiek," was paying Dorothy.

Dorothy will be sentenced Monday.

PLENTY OF CAPITAL AVAILABLE TO AID FARM OPERATIONS

Washington, June 18.—A plentiful supply of capital at reasonable rates to finance the movement of the agricultural crop and other farm operations during the remainder of the year is assured, G. A. Copher, chairman of the farm loan board told International News Service today.

With $59,087,000 outstanding as direct loans and rediscounts from the intermediary credit banks the advance to farmers so far this year have been from $125,000,000 to $130,000,000. More than half of these obligations has been liquidated.

Farmers are paying from 4 to 4½ percent for their capital this season about a half percent under last year. Cooper did not anticipate any increase in money rates during the remainder of the year. He explained that at this rate farmers can operate economically from the capital supply standpoint.

A decided improvement in banking conditions is evident throughout the middle west, according to Cooper. He said that many farmers are borrowing from commercial banks at rates as low as four percent.

WISCONSIN SOLON VICTIM OF HEART TROUBLE THURSDAY

Was Candidate For President Last November Election

Washington, D. C., June 18.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, progressive leader in the senate and candidate of progressives for the presidency last November, died here this afternoon. His death was due to heart trouble brought on by asthma and complications.

La Follette's condition took a turn for the worse yesterday, but his physician, Dr. C. C. Marbury, did not despair of his ultimate recovery. This morning, however, after a restless night, the senator suddenly became gravely ill and Dr. B. M. Randolph, a heart specialist, was called into consultation.

Mrs. La Follette, the widow, and Robert M. La Follette, Jr., have been with the senator here since he was confined to his bed three weeks ago. His youngest son, Philip La Follette, district attorney at Madison, Wis., arrived here yesterday. This morning the senator's two daughters, Mrs. George Middleton of New York and Mrs. Ralph Sucker, of Washington, joined the little family group, at the La Follette home on Wyoming Avenue.

La Follette was 70 years old last Sunday. He was born in Dane County, Wis., June 14, 1855. After serving as district attorney in Wisconsin for four years, he was a member of congress from 1885 to 1891, governor of Wisconsin from 1901 to 1905, and has served since in the United States senate, always playing a lone hand, while remaining nominally a member of the Republican party. His present term would have expired on March 4, 1927.

As chairman of the senate committee on manufacturers, Senator La Follette sponsored the resolution which led to the famous oil investigations, which have culminated in criminal indictments against ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny. He was also the ranking Republican member of the committees on interstate commerce and finance, and could have been the chairman of either had it not been for his refusal to "play ball" with the Republican leaders in the senate.

The climax of La Follette's career came a year ago when he definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the conference for progressive political action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republicans and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

Tentative plans of Mrs. La Follette and her sons when she definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the conference for progressive political action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republicans and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

SALE OF FIREWORKS CURBED BY CHIEF

Chief of Police M. E. Graham issued his annual warning to dealers and youngsters Thursday governing the sale and premature use of fireworks before July 4.

Dealers will not be permitted to begin the sale until the week previous and are warned not to allow children to purchase the crackers until the day before the Fourth. "Grown ups" may purchase fireworks during the restricted period, however, Chief Graham declared.

Co-operation of parents is asked by Chief Graham in curbing the avoidable and useless accidents which usually result from the use of the pyrotechnics. The largest crackers which may be sold this year are of the two and one-half inch variety.

MODISH MITZI—What If It "Ain't Goin' To Rain No More?" By JAY V. JAY

This man is famous for his indifference. He has been dubbed a Lonely Soul by sympathetic women. He is called snobbish by some. Sophisticated by others. Aloof. The heels in this picture are Mitzi's. Very new heels with a design studied with brilliant. Mitzi is quite conscious that the Indifferent Person is behind her. Perhaps he is even looking at her heels.

Just as the Indifferent Person was passing her Mitzi happened, ever so casually, of course, to take out her pocket atomizer and gently work it so that the most subtle of perfume, (a perfume most marvelously created for her type, so they say) filled the air.

How can the Indifferent Person remain indifferent? Not for long. Not under the influence of the mid-Victorian jewelry that Mitzi is wearing. The Indifferent Person is turning his head—and Mitzi sees him, do it in the mirror. Her earrings and pendant have worked the charm.

"That Indifferent Person is staring around actually looking for some one," reports Polly from the window. "Is he?" guilelessly asks Mitzi. "To tell the truth, Pol, I don't think he is so dreadfully indifferent to... to novelties." "Oh," says Polly, "oh!" Polly understands why Mitzi has been wearing them!

MOORE-CALDWELL NUPTIALS THURSDAY

Quiet simplicity marked the marriage of Miss Celia Ann Moore, only daughter of Mrs. Fannie Moore, North Galloway Street to Mr. Harold McCaldwell, of Mansfield, Ohio, at the Moore home, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Due to the serious illness of the bride's aunt, Miss Hazel Flagg, plans for a more elaborate ceremony were abandoned. The ceremony was witnessed by the members of the bride's immediate family and Mr. Caldwell's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Caldwell, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Caldwell, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, assisted by the bride's pastor, Dr. C. P. Proudfoot of the local Second U. P. Church officiated.

The attendants were the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, Van Wert, Ohio.

Enhancing her fair beauty, the bride's dress was of white flat crepe, made along straight lines, beaded in crystal. A wreath of orange blossoms held her hair and she carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Moore's gown was of pink georgette over yellow satin and she carried pink roses and delphinium. The single ring ceremony was used.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell left Thursday afternoon on a brief honeymoon. They will reside in Mansfield, O., where Mr. Caldwell is secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is a graduate of Muskingum College. Mrs. Caldwell is a graduate of Central High School, with the class of 1919, and attended Muskingum College two years. She taught one year at Spring Valley and for the past three years at Spring Hill School.

The Rev. F. W. Stanton, pastor of the First M. E. Church, this city, addressed a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Union Circuit at Union Church, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Horton of Painesville, O., are spending the week as the guests of Mrs. Horton's father Mr. William Harper of North Detroit Street.

Mrs. George Street of East Third Street will address the congregation of the Methodist Church at Spring Valley, Sunday. She is superintendent of young people's work of the Dayton M. E. District.

Little Miss Dorothy Coy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coy, West Second Street, was flower girl at the marriage of Miss Alice Dorothy Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Z. Spicer, Lowes Street, Dayton, and Mr. Homer J. Rausch, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rausch, Dayton, Wednesday evening, at the Patterson Memorial Presbyterian Church.

HARDIE-REYNOLDS CEREMONY WEDNESDAY

The marriage of Miss Aline Hardie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Ammon, West Milton, and Mr. Fred Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reynolds, Stonemill Road, Dayton, former Xenians was solemnized simply and quietly by the Rev. Hugh Ivan Evans, at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

An altar of palms, flanked with tall wicker standards filled with shasta daisies, was arranged at the side of the house and it was here that the vows were taken.

A program of wedding music was given by Mrs. Hatfield and Miss Caspock of West Milton, preceding the service. Stands of white tulips, stretched by small children, formed a pathway for the bridal party.

Miss Virginia Nan Byrne, bridesmaid walked first, wearing pink georgette and carrying lavender corn flowers, delphinium and pink roses. Miss Betty Eyer, maid of honor, wore lavender georgette, and carried a similar bouquet. Little Miss Jane Scharrer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Scharrer, Dayton, was flower girl.

The bride wore a gown of soft white lace, combining Venise, fillet and valenciennes and embroidered silk net. The gown was sleeveless and fashioned with short skirt. A band of Duchess lace, a family heirloom, held her tulle veil, cap fashioned and ornamented with orange blossoms. Her veil formed a long train. She wore white satin slippers with bows of tulle, fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, white sweet peas and corn flowers.

After the ceremony, a buffet supper was served in the garden. Mrs. Ammon wore a dress of white chiffon, with a shoulder corsage of orchids. Mrs. Reynolds, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in blue georgette.

COMMENCEMENT

THOUSANDS of young people are this month facing the real tests of life with the closing behind them of the school's doors, and with diplomas in their possession they are eagerly looking ahead from one of the great turning points in human experience. It is a time when the youth is casting a final look behind him before plunging into the unknown future.

If such a young person is graduating for the final time, and is not going on for some further study, it is one of the most startling changes he will ever come up against. Up to now, a great deal has been done in the way of help for the student. The work has often seemed very difficult, yet help has always been available from teachers and very often from parents. Thus difficulties have tended to vanish as a usual thing.

But when the student gets out into the world, he suddenly finds that no one outside of his home feels this same keen interest in the novice in the field of business and industry. The newcomer is left to work out his own salvation very largely. If he falls down, no one but his own friends may care much.

It is the fine and splendid thing about the young people of this age, that while they realize quite well that they are going into a colder atmosphere, yet they have full faith in their own ability to meet this new situation. They rightly argue, that while the difficulties they have to meet will be much greater than they ever encountered before, yet every day they will be gaining new experiences and power with which to grapple with them.

If youth had the same caution, and timidity with which older people enter new experiences, the world would never get fit. But the face of youth is turned to unknown experience with serene faith that all things will work out, and they usually do for those who maintain the courage of these days of graduation.

SPEAKING OF SUMMER

WITH Summer officially but a few days off, although most of us are ready to admit that it has been here actually for some time, hopes are expressed that this year might upset precedent and turn out to be ideal. An ideal summer is suggested by some to be somewhat as follows:

An ideal summer would have a temperature sliding from 60 down to 72 at noon, with clear air, bright sunshine and only those showers which are necessary and do not interfere with picnics.

It would be a summer without an ice shortage, or the discovery of a new germ, and reduction of 50 per cent in the cost of ice cream.

It would be a summer when sport produced a super-Ruth, a better-than-Dempsey and another Man o' War.

It would see the beaches without a swimmer's cramp and the roads without an automobile tragedy. There would be sea serpents, but no sharks except a new and toothless variety.

It would be a summer of absolute silence on the part of divorce principals.

Well, let the new season be as ideal as it can.

ELIMINATE THE WASTE

FOR a number of years past it has been the earnest desire of the people to get the government out of business. In order to do this it has taken carefully considered planning and now the people are aware of the fact that business has a problem of its own, namely, the elimination of the waste in production and distribution. This is a problem that is being carefully studied by the leading business men of all industries throughout the nation. Another angle that confronts the people is the matter of local taxation. This is one that must be dealt with by the states, counties and cities, and it must be dealt with in a manner that does not savor of 'kid glove' methods. It may hurt a certain class of office holders, but it will save the balance of the people of the country large sums of money.

One thing is evident, and that is that the President does not desire to do anything that will change the prosperous condition in which this country now is.

BROTHERHOOD

Oh, I think as I sit at my window
And look at the world passing by,
And see care's plain traces on all of
The faces
How like all the others am I.
The boy on the wagon is working
For food and a few garments new.
He's out after money, for milk and
for honey
And I am out after it, too.
The people keep coming and going
And some of them plainly are sad,
And each one now facing this morning is bearing
A grief or a burden I've had.
And each one has lived as a baby.
And each one some evening shall

die,
And there's no denying, that each one
is trying
For the very same Heaven as I.

The men who are married are working
For their wives and their children,
no doubt,
That man with the team, has a glorious dream
For his babies he wants to work
out;
And if I could read it correctly,
I should know as he passes me by,
That he is out driving those horses
and striving
For the very same purpose, as I.
I think as I sit in my window,
How foolish I am in my pride,
In good or bad weather, we're all
here together
And whether we walk or we ride,
We must toil for the dreams which
we cherish

WILL THAT WOMAN EVER COME BACK FOR HER BABY?

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

Messrs. Louis Woolley and Ben Piers, this city, have been in Springfield the past week where they filled an engagement in a circus given there by the order of the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

The second matinee meeting of the Xenia Driving Club Friday afternoon drew a crowd large beyond the expectations of the club. The "Doctors" Race was won by Dr. Madden over Dr. Finley in straight heats.

Ten years ago a farmer near Greene County put his initials on a dollar and went to town and spent it with a merchant. Before the year was out he got his dollar back.

The O. S. and S. O. Home baseball team is scheduled to play two games, this Saturday, one with a Jamestown team and the other with a team from Bellbrook.

'How shall I curtain my French doors and casement windows' is a question which comes in to me frequently.

Of course, French doors, originally were not meant by the architect to be curtained at all; they were designed to give the home an effect of immensity—the eyes sweeping two or more rooms at a single glance.

But there are three conditions under which women often prefer to drape their French doors, 1. When the furniture in one room, or the general effectiveness, is not quite equal to that of the room on the other side of the glass door. In this case the less attractive room spoils the effect of the more attractive. 2. When the French doors are hung between a dining room and a living room and would violate the privacy of the dining room if undraped. 3. When the home is already too large and barnlike and coziness, rather than immensity is the aim.

Under these three conditions it is correct to curtain the doors in one of two ways: With side drapes (no top ruffle-valance) or with silk gauze attached to the door itself.

By the first method, the sidedrapes reach from the top of the doorway to the floor and are run on a brass rod by means of small brass rings attached to the curtains; in other words, they are simply draw-curtains wide enough to meet together when drawn over the door, but ordinarily kept pushed back against the hinged part.

New Safe Way to Remove Hair Roots

No need now to undergo painful electric treatments to remove superfluous hair; nor to apply ordinary ineffective hair removers which only remove surface hairs. A marvelous new Oriental balsam has been discovered which is applied almost as easily as cold cream. It penetrates towards the hair roots and gently "eases out" every objectionable hair, root and all, and leaves the skin clear, white, healthy and soft as velvet. No muss. No odor. No growing back of hair stronger than ever. Absolutely harmless. Karma, as this wonderful new discovery is called, is highly recommended by prominent beauty specialists, and is sold on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction by of the doors. They may be made of rep, cretonne, silk, velvet—in fact, of any desired material. Generally, however they match the window overdrapes. If you use a material which has an unattractive underside, (which will of course, show through the door) you must line it with sateen or silk muslin.

By the second method, run silk gauze or the new "gold fillet" on brass rods at top and bottom of the door it self where the glass ends, thus stretching the material taut, though gathered slightly on the rods.

Casement windows are curtained as just described for French doors (the second method) with silk gauze, scrim net, or gold fillet "cased" top and bottom on rods.

New Easy Way To End NASAL CATARRH

Quick and sure; safe and no trouble—the new Way to get rid of loathsome Catarrh in nose and throat.

It may be acute or it may be chronic—of years standing—you may have tried salves and ointments and other treatments.

You're probably disgusted and think you haven't a chance in the world of overcoming it.

Try once more—try this. Get a six ounce bottle of Kojene for 60 cents at Sayre & Hemphill's or any progressive druggist. Spray the nostrils with it twice a day for three or four days or until every Catarrh germ is destroyed and the nose is clean and clear.

Try once more and get rid of this obnoxious disease. Kojene will do it. If by any mishap it fails your money will be gladly returned.

Kojene is the world's most powerful, non-poisonous antiseptic—seventy five times as strong as highly flavored antiseptics—yet you can drink it with no ill effects.

If it won't conquer nasal catarrh and clean out every trace of mucous and soreness nothing will, adv

Why Thin, Pale Girls Are Unpopular

It is a well-known fact that thin, pale or yellow, poorly-developed girls, with dark circles under the eyes, and who always appear tired and listless, do not attract friends. Yet in thousands of cases these conditions are due merely to the lack of pure, red blood, rich in health-giving iron. By simply getting sufficient iron into their blood, these girls may quickly have the blooming cheeks, ruddy lips and well-rounded forms that make other girls so attractive and so popular.

But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and not the old-fashioned liquid medicines or pills made from mineral iron that often injured the teeth and disturbed the stomach. Nuxated Iron contains organic iron, like the iron in your own blood. Try it for two weeks and notice the strength you gain. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

Today's Talks

ROADS

Roads have always interested me. Perhaps mostly because they are the means whereby mankind has been able to get together and institute growth.

All over the earth roads tell the story of advancement and civilization. They lead to cities, to farms, to factories, to every enterprise in fact of which man is a part.

Like the network of nerves and blood vessels in the human frame, so are the roads in the living framework of a nation.

Just the minute that you are located off a road, you create a problem both for yourself and for those who have to do with you.

The road today has reached its highest perfection. An automobile has beaten the fastest train from San Francisco to New York city. How well I remember when a ten or 15 mile drive with a horse was a task for a day. Now we take more than that while we are waiting for our dinner to be cooked.

Marvelous has been the progress of the road, and mankind has advanced with it.

But the greatest appeal of any road lies in its poetry, its romance, its intricate shades of beauty.

I recently took a thousand mile drive in my car through the great state of New York. I purposely chose a route away from the main cities, taking a northern passage to Buffalo and a southerly way back. And what magnificent scenery and roads! I envied every farmer and country inhabitant along the way. I almost pitied those—including myself—who day by day entered the whirlpool of the city's turmoil.

There were winding roads to the top of great hills, and then into valleys, across level territory, along canals and railroads, and through quaint little towns that were a hundred years or more of age. It was Tagore who spoke so beautifully about the road being a part of the destination itself. Fine, beautiful roads are as accurate an indication of a nation's character as its people. And the better the roads, the better the people are sure to be.

AVIATORS BATTLE FIRES AND BUGS IN NEW AIR CONQUEST

Washington, June 18.—Three tremendously important developments in commercial aeronautics—the Ford freight service, the aerial battle against agricultural insect pests in the South and the use of seaplanes to fight forest fires in Canada—were described by Godfrey L. Cabot, president of the National Aeronautical Association of the United States, as outstanding accomplishments in man's conquest of the air today.

No great demand exists for aerial passenger service so far in this country, according to Cabot although he predicted that not far in the future this channel of transportation will be remarkably developed.

"There is, however, a tremendous demand for airplane, for private use," Cabot said. "I am informed that many airplane factories are behind in their orders for this class of machine. Many persons in America are buying aircraft for private pleasure used."

Secretary of Commerce Hoover has stated that commercial aviation is not developed in the United States to the extent it has progressed in Europe.

BORAH STATEMENT CAUSES REJOICING

Pekin, June 18.—Senator William E. Borah's statement in Washington that there is nothing in the Chinese situation necessitating any change in America's traditional friendliness for Cha caused general satisfaction and rejoicing in the capital today.

"The senator's statement may be regarded as a reiteration of the American principle of good will, fair play and justice in international relations," said C. T. Wang former premier, who was a delegate to the arms conference.

"The republic is glad to know of the expression of such good will."

SINGLE TREE BEARS ALL KINDS OF FRUIT BUT IT'S ALL GRAFT

Los Angeles, June 18.—The dweller may soon have a little orchard of his own in the six feet or so of ground allotted to him while he inhabits the earth.

All that is needed is space for one tree to grow. From it he may pick Jonathans, Delicious or Ben Davis apples. If he is enterprising he may also reach up and pick off pears or peaches.

But it's all a graft, however you look at it.

The biggest grafter of the species lives in Iowa—in Waterloo, to be exact. His name is F. W. Sargent, a carpenter.

He has one tree of a size to bear fruit in abundance. But from it he plucks twelve kinds of apples.

Ten years ago it was an apple tree of the Esopus variety. Sargent began grafting other varieties on it, in the season when grafting would get results. Last year twelve of the "grafts" bore fruit. This year he expects the picking to be better.

Sargent generously explained his system of grafting.

"You must have an established tree to get the best results," he said. "Planting does not produce fruit as quickly as grafting."

"I like to take a one-year-old tree and trim it down to about three feet, leaving five or six buds, each on different sides of the tree, the lowest about a foot above the ground. This will make the sturdiest, strongest tree, as branches will grow out from all sides."

LIMITED SPACE

"I decide what kind of apple I'd like to have in my own orchard and graft that kind on to my tree," Sargent continued. "This one, with the twelve varieties of apples growing on it in one season, I started experimenting with ten or twelve years ago. Each year I've added one or more species of apple by grafting. Last year I got a bushel of excellent eating apples from this one tree."

"I started this grafting because I did not want to wait for the trees I liked to grow large enough to bear fruit."

"Besides, I've only got a city lot," Sargent added, "and do not have room for a large number of trees. Therefore, I've concentrated my efforts and am able to grow much of the fruits and other produce my family needs."

BELL COMPANY WILL BUILD NEW HOME

A new general telephone building, 324 feet in height with a floor space of 308,000 square feet, is to be erected by The Ohio Bell Telephone Company at Cleveland at a cost of $4,000,000, according to word received by H. W. Cleaver, local commercial manager. The building will be completed within the next three years and will be the general headquarters of the company as well as house three of the present Cleveland central offices, the long distance boards, offices of the Northern division of the company, the Cleveland offices and the offices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

It will provide room for 2,000 company employees. The building will be the tallest in Cleveland, topping the tallest sky-scraper by seventy feet.

Mrs. Charles Armstrong and two daughters of Springfield, O., are the guests of Mrs. Armstrong's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Kump of North Detroit Street.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

While exercise is not advisable during the acute stages of headache, it will prove highly beneficial at other times. Long walks will build up the system and tend to prevent the congestion which is so important a factor in headaches of the migraine character.

Bending exercises of all kinds are especially to be recommended, especially those which stimulate the activity of the bowels, since the most essential factor in curing this class of headache, and also in preventing their recurrence is to keep the bowels open. Lying on the bed and raising the feet over the head, while keeping the knees straight, is one of the best of these. Another is to take a standing position and then bring up alternately the right and left knee, pressing it against the chest. The two hands should be put under the knee, for this purpose, and the knee made actually to touch the chest, if possible. Massage of the bowels, by means of the hands, fists or some mechanical appliance, is also of value. A thorough enema should be taken immediately upon the appearance of the first symptoms of the headache, and daily for some days afterwards.

Next to migraine, neurasthenic headaches are, possibly the most common. There is usually a feeling of constriction about the head, in headaches of this character, as though a rubber band had been placed about the forehead, completely encircling the head. Frequently a limited area of pain geometrical in shape is noted. The patient may say that the pain area is triangular, square or of some other geometrical form. These patients are usually more or less chronic sufferers; their headache recurring at stated intervals, is of first nervous disposition.

The first and most important essential in the treatment of this variety of headache is rest. The patient should have an abundance of sleep and quiet for the mind and body, with no disturbance of the emotions. He should concentrate his attention upon the spot where the ribs divide; that is the "solar plexus," and relax that area, which will usually be found to be under a tension. Deep breathing exercises, and the practice of "seeing black," so as to induce relaxation of the mind, will also prove highly beneficial.

HOME GRADUATES URGED TO HONOR PARENTS, TEACHER, FLAG BY COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Graduates of the O. S. and S. O. Home were urged to honor their father, and mother, flag and teacher, by A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, O., former state director of agriculture who delivered the commencement address at the state institution, Wednesday night.

To honor one's parents is one of the primary rules of life, the speaker said, and he told the graduates to love the flag next, since it is closely associated with their fathers, who served under it in several wars. He stressed the important part the teacher plays in molding the character and life of the young boy or girl, and the reverence that is in turn due her.

Mr. Sandles' good points were interspersed with witty remarks. He declared that success could only be attained through hard work and advised the pupils along industrious paths.

Of the forty-five members of the discharged class of the institution, the following high school graduates received their diplomas at the exercises:

High school: Frank Theodore Philby, Nina M. Slaughterbeck, Ora Eugene Smith; Stenography and typewriting, Irma May Noland, Nellie May DeVeny, Ruth Sarah Marsak, Hanna Allen, Margaret E. Hagans, Mary Jane King, Elizabeth Maley, Margaret May Braun, Christine A. Parker, Elizabeth Marie Munger, Elizabeth A. Jones, Howard Sherman, Nina M. Slaughterbeck, millinery and dressmaking, Bessie Burkhardt, Nellie Marie Lusk, Elva Louise DuBell, Catherine Forney, Anna Fortune, Lillian Lena Peabworth, Lena Belle Drake, Nellie Ball.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Xenia, delivered the invocation, following the opening orchestra selection and pronounced the benediction in the absence of the Rev. F. W. Stanton, First M. E. Church pastor.

The Home Chorus gave a number "The Woods of Spring," by F. Abt. Three honor pupils delivered orations, as follows: "America's Progress Since the War," Ora E. Smith; "The Meaning of America," Frank Theodore Philby and "America—Another Word for Opportunity," Nina M. Slaughterbeck.

A musical number was given by a saxophone sextette, preceding Mr. Sandles' address. The Girls' Orchestra tra and the chorus gave several other numbers.

Discharge Day, Friday, June 19, will see the departure of forty-five discharged pupils from the Home, the boys and girls having reached the age limit of 18 years.

BROADCAST BY STATION
WONES

Dolf Luque, Cincinnati slabsman, hurled a nice game Wednesday against the New York Giants beating them by a 1 to 0 score. This marked the Giants' sixth consecutive defeat. The Gotham tribe is not faring any to well on its western trip and if the Reds can hand them the same dose that the Pirates did they won't go home quite so cocky. At present the leaders are about three full games ahead of the Redlegs. Of the fourteen games the Giants have played to date on foreign soil they have won but six. They opened their trip at St. Louis and took the series there, winning three and losing one. At Chicago they broke even with the Cubs as each club won two games. They moved over to Pittsburgh and were handed four defeats in a row.

It is beginning to look as though the Chicago Cubs got the worst end of the deal when they traded Grantham, Niehaus and Aldridge to the Pirates for Grimm, Maranville and Cooper. Cooper, veteran lefthander, has won but one game out of six to date. Maranville, who broke his leg while he was in training camp, has proved of little value to the Cubs so far. Grimm was the only one that was really worth train fare as he is playing good ball and hitting the agate at .361. As for the Pirates' end of the deal, Niehaus was traded to the Pirates for Sheehan who will no doubt help McKechnie's hurling corps out quite a bit. Aldridge has been tossing good ball, winning four games while he has lost three. He has fanned twenty-six and walked twenty-two in the seven games he has worked. Grantham, who had a tough time in getting started at the first sack, has finally hit his stride and is hiding down the first cushion in nice fashion. He is hitting a .342 clip but has not as many hits as Grimm as he was benched for quite a spell.

Since Rogers Hornsby took over the reins of the St. Louis Cardinals they have been showing championship form. Hornsby was appointed manager May 31 and at that time the Cards were in the cellar. They came to life however, and handed the Reds four defeats. They came from the bottom to fifth place in a week and still remain there just outside of first division. They took the series from Brooklyn while they beat the Phillies five in succession. They have won thirteen of their last seventeen games and if they continue at this rate the race will tighten greatly. Gene Leakey, former Reserve second baseman, is now holding down the middle station for the Bowersville Bayliffs. Leakey played nice ball for the locals and was one of the best lead off men they ever had. He was at bat twenty-two times and got on base fourteen times. He drew six walks, got five hits, and got safe on errors three times. He was whiffed eight times. He hit .227 with the Reserves which is a bit light for him. Last season he hit .274. He will make the Bowersville bunch a good second sacker as he knows the game and is fast and a good fielder.

ROBERT ROPE WINS CUP IN FIRST ANNUAL ANTIOCH AQUATIC CARNIVAL WEDNESDAY

Robert Rope, of Buffalo, N. Y., A. U. champion of the Niagara district, was awarded a silver loving cup for high individual scoring honors in the first annual swimming meet of Antioch College held at Grinnell Park Wednesday afternoon.

The battle for high scoring honors was bitterly contested by Nelson Chick, of California, who tied Rope for first place in the regular events, each man ending with nineteen points in a final diving contest between the two athletes to determine a winner, the honors went to Rope.

Rope, who is a freshman at Antioch College, is an experienced swimmer and displayed fine form in the meet. Chick is also an expert but not as finished a performer as Rope.

Aquatic features which included Chinese life saving exhibitions by Duke DuBois and Robert Rope, interlarded the program of swimming events. Miss Margaret Sutherland contributed to the nature performance with fancy diving exhibitions.

Sprague capped third place in the race for individual scoring honors among the boys with fifteen points to his credit with Brown close behind with fourteen.

Miss Ruth Harker captured first honors in scoring in the girls' division with eighteen points followed by Miss Margaret Sutherland in second place. Miss Rebecca Dunning and Miss Dorothy Lies tied for third place with ten points each. High scores were presented with ribbons by the college.

Weeping clouds held up the water carnival for some time. The banks of the Little Miami River were lined with spectators who turned out to cheer the respective contestants to victory despite inclement weather.

The relay race the first event on the program, was won by the team of Chick, Light, Parke and Rope. Brown and Sprague captured the next race, the hand paddling canoe event, over Coskery and Croft, who placed second and the Barr-Peterson team, which came in third.

Rope demonstrated early superiority over Chick by defeating the latter in the 200-yard dash for men, although Chick was a close second. Gilmore and Light took third and fourth places respectively. Chick retaliated in the short fifty-yard dash by beating Rope who came in second. Gilmore, Light and Moran pulled in back of the leaders.

The race for high scoring honors clearly lay between Rope and Chick. It was noticed early in the meet as the pair was easily superior to the other entries in the major events.

Rope took the fifty-yard breast stroke for men. Second place went to Ramage, with Moran and Kinley winning third and fourth. Chick beat his rival in the 100-yard for men, with Rope second, and Gilmore, Owen and Parke bringing up the rear.

Sprague was named the winner in the fancy diving for men followed by Brown, Ramage, Light and Coskery.

In the women events, Miss Harker took first place in the twenty-five yard dash with Miss Florence Woodruff, second; Miss Sutherland, third; Miss Dunning, fourth, and Miss Lies, fifth.

The Agnes Baron-Genevieve Tanner team crossed the finish line first in the hand paddling canoe race for women with Ruth Harker and Dorothy Lies second. Miss Harker won the egg race with Miss Sutherland second. In this novel event, the girl entries carried an egg in a spoon held in their mouths. The winner still held the egg in the spoon when she crossed the mark.

The canoe tilting races for men in 1924 was won by Edward Simmons, of Linden Community Center, Dayton, William E. Johnson, Wilberforce, O., assistant treasurer of the association, has charge of the arrangements.

The playing rules adopted by the American Tennis Association will govern the meet.

Entries should be addressed to Dean Mohr, secretary of the association and must be received before 5 p.m., Friday, June 19.

XENIA GOLFERS WIN FROM MIDDLETOWN IN NASSAU MATCH

Local golfers were in fine form, and the Xenia Country Club won its first inter city match of the 1925 season by defeating the Middletown Golf Club 49 to 15 in a match over the local course Wednesday afternoon.

The match was held up for nearly an hour by a downpour of rain that soaked the course and made high-grade playing impossible. The match was staged as scheduled under conditions that tested both the golfers' ability and patience.

Fifty-two players participated in the match, twenty-six players representing each club. Luncheon was served the visiting and local golfers following the match at the club house.

A victory over Middletown is considered quite a feat and undoubtedly boosts the stock of the local game under the instruction of Bob MacKay, new "pro."

No announcements have been made of arrangements for future matches.

SMEARCASE GETS SMALLPOX

Another man went wrong last evening when Longfellow Smearcase of Jamestown mumbled his promises to love, cherish, obey and provide three squares per day for Miss Abigail Smearcase, of Jasper, until death do them separate.

The faint nervous whistle of "The Flight Is On" a concert played by the Hammer Club orchestra, told of the approach of the bridal party which consisted of the bride and groom. They entered through the doorway and the groom was the best man present.

As the happy couple moved across the floor of the sanctuary where the Justice of Peace was standing they were preceded by a bewitching little butterfly, which joined in the blissful occasion. The bride stepped cautiously and advanced on the arm of her lover, who was not unmindful of the burden he was bearing and would have to bear from that time on.

The bride was adorned in a beautiful dress of plaid gingham, with her hair done prettily upon her head like an ice cream cone. She was barefooted and limped just a little, having encountered a splinter while walking along the railroad tracks near Cedarville. Her bouquet was a shower of garlic, mixed throughout with timothy hay and rhubarb.

The groom wore a pair of suspenders attached to which were a pair of white palm beach trousers. His gift to the bride was a galvanized washbub and three bars of Star soap. After the wedding they walked happily to Cedarville where they will go to housekeeping. Arriving there Abigail fried a chicken and burned it, so she gave it to the groom as a burnt offering.

A bewitching little canary twittered a love song to her mate, tender emotional, beautiful and innocent like a glorious doxology. May Heaven help them!

HOME COMING WILL BE HELD SUNDAY BY GRASSY RUN FRIENDS

"Home-coming and Community" Day at Grassy Run, will be held Sunday, June 21, it is announced. Grassy Run Friends' meeting was established as a meeting ninety-six years ago, and meetings have been held regularly since. As a monthly meeting, it was formerly joined with Dover and Jamestown Friends meetings. Now each is a monthly session in itself. The present clarks are J. B. and Harriet Peelle.

Many have gone from this meeting as workers and ministers into other communities. At this meeting the gift of ministry was recognized in John Henry and Robert Douglass, Isaiah Peelle and a number of others. The wife of John Henry Douglass, Miriam Carter was born and reared in the community.

Lewis Hunt, John Pidgeon and others have been resident ministers. At one time, there were eight resident ministers. Garnett Januvar and Denver Driscoll are two former members who are now ministers in other churches.

Lewis Hunt, John Pidgeon and others have been resident ministers. At one time, there were eight resident ministers. Garnett Januvar and Denver Driscoll are two former members who are now ministers in other churches.

The meeting has long been the home meeting of the Peelle, Bentley, Mills, Hunt, Carter, Gallimore, Hoover, Pearson and other families.

On the committee appointed to ask for the establishment of the meeting were William Peelle, Cephas Atkinson, and John Carter. Descendants of these men are now regular attendants at the meeting.

June 21 has been chosen as a day when all former members or members who are now non-residents will be welcomed back to their old home meeting.

Anyone dwelling in the community who is not a member is extended an invitation to attend the gathering with his friends and neighbors.

Westboro, where the Rev. Mr. Leasure has charge of the night services, is planning to attend both morning and afternoon services. The morning is arranged as an open meeting. The afternoon speaker is Judge Clevenger of Wilmington.

A basket dinner is planned for the noon hour. All are invited to come for the day with their well filled baskets.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poisons Start to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinges of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

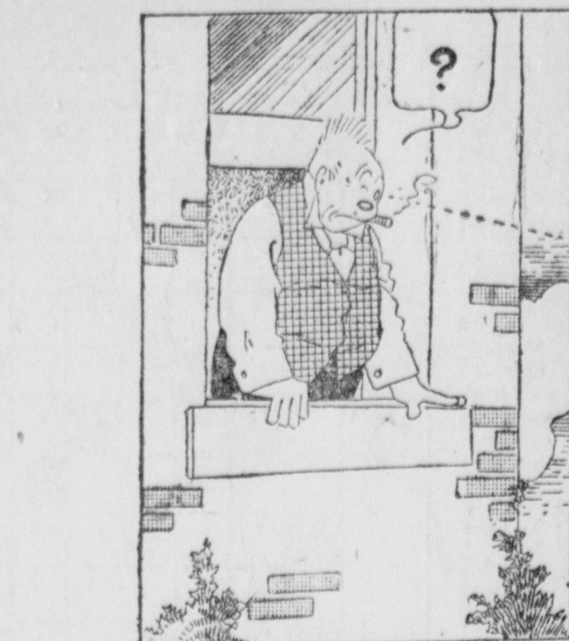

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. BRINGING UP FATHER

CHAPTER LXXII.
Mr. Lugh is going with us on the yachting party, but Eloise Marshall isn't." Aunt Mary announced at the tea table in the garden the next afternoon.

"Michael won't care to go then," Lilah smiled.

Aunt Mary glanced at her furtively, then winked at Michael. "She is going on location in the mountains with a company," she explained.

"Can't you find another little playmate for my husband, someone who won't bore him like his wife does?"

Aunt Mary's brow clouded. "I think you are speaking seriously, pet, and I believe you are wronging Michael."

"His eyes were on the ground."

"I'm sure he loves you very deeply. It must hurt him to hear you say such things, and you've made many remarks like that in the last few days. I know I haven't any right meddling in the business of you two, but I want to help you avoid the unhappiness that comes into married life when husbands and wives lose their respect for each other."

They had never seen Aunt Mary in such a mood, both were moved. They glanced at each other.

"You're right, Aunt. I don't mean to be mean when I say such things, but I know I am."

"And I guess she had grounds for such remarks," Michael was moved to say—to his own surprise, perhaps, as well as to the others. "I did sort of flirt with Miss Marshall."

Aunt Mary was amused. "Confession is good for the soul." She sighed. "You two will always get along better if you aren't afraid to confess such things. Of course I realize that you'll often fib to each other about big things as well as little things, because the truth hurts."

Lilah, after a thoughtful moment, said: "I'd like to make an agreement with Michael that we will always tell the truth to each other no matter how much it hurts."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Things We Can't Afford—We Get!

Us Americans are a bull headed crew all right, all right! Just let some chap invent a luxury for the home or for women or girls and right away learned economists will stand on their heads and "view with alarm" the extravagant notions of the American public!

But the luxuries SELL! And WE BUY 'EM!

That's one fine thing about us folks—we sure do like this business of LIVING. Boiled down it proves we're a nation of he-blooded, had knuckled, free-handed hombies who realize we've got more than 840 months to live in a wonderful country and that while we're HERE we're going to get 100 percent value out of it!

And 840 months s 70 years!

Just whisper—only WHISPER to one of us Americans that maybe we can't AFFORD an electric washing machine or a modern cook stove or a new automobile or a diamond ring and right THEN is when we hitch up our socks, take a new notch in the belt, click the old jaw and BUY the blamed thing—WHATEVER it is!

And that's why we're the most progressive, modern, up to date crowd of folks on earth! Thousands of men in hundreds of factories supply us with luxuries at the same time making GOOD WAGES which they in turn spend for some OTHER LUXURY—the whole scheme of things working out to the IMMENSE BENEFIT of all of us!

If this sounds like "making the Eagle howl", I'm perfectly content to accept the charge. I like the old bird and like the idea of being around where he is.

JACK WILLETT.

OUR LITTLE NELL'S COME BACK FWTHERR!

Just as we were all ready to tell you some of the splendid features of the Overland, Willys-Knight and Studebaker cars and requesting that you stop in some night on your way home and buy one, comes the news that some fool German named Miethe, a high school teacher in Charlottenburg, Germany, has up and DISCOVERED HOW TO MAKE GOLD!!

And now he and a Prof. Gaschler are sending over a bird named George Schultze to meet up with J. Pierpont Morgan, Rockefeller and the Carnegie Institute to start gold making on a commercial basis!

Can you blame Verne and me for not saying anything about our automobiles? Last week we did just a fair job of prophesying on the Auto Bootlegger and we'd like to do another job like that here on this Gold Manufacturing stunt but so far we haven't been able to get our wits together! Its too big a problem! Pierp and John D. sure need that gold these days.

So now that gold is going to be turned out like sheet rock, beaver board and spades, we won't ask you to pay "hard money" for our cars. Just bring in anything you have,—old dishes, coal scuttles, flasks, mustache cups, wrist mits, bustles or bootjacks and we'll make a trade of some sort.

Certainly we aim to keep step with the times! But COME IN!

Snap! Wotta WE care for G-o-l-d!

HARRY.

Shorty Says:-

If Jack really BELIEVES what he's hol-lerin' and whoopin' about up top of page, I'm going to back him in a corner and WHISPER — just whisper—"I'm A LUXURY" and see if he'll break down and give me more pay! I've been called a lot of things and mebbe I AM a luxury—I dunno.

If this works out all right and Jack falls for it, I aim to get me a new skillet. The one I got has a crack in it and it leaves a crease in eggs and ham and steak and such when I fry same. I like luxury myself—in some things.
